Mansfield Urges U.S.-China Talks

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield proposed today a face-to-face meeting between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Red China's Foreign Minister Chen Yi to discuss a peaceful settlement of the Viet Nam war.

The Senate Democratic leader said in a speech prepared for Yeshiva University graduates that the war threatens to become in the end a U.S.-Chinese conflict, just as in Korea.

Dem Critic Calls Rhodes 'Whisky Jim'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Rep. Harry H. McIlwain of Cincinnati has lashed out at Gov. James A. Rhodes and says Ohioans will learn the full story of alleged administration failures in the fall election program.

McIlwain attacked the governor Wednesday while holding his first news conference since becoming the new head of the Democratic State Speakers Bureau.

"James — Whisky Jim — Rhodes is a fake and a phony," McIlwain said while lauding State Sen. Frazier Reams Jr. of Toledo, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate.

McIlwain, who lost the Democratic nomination to Reams, recalled that Rhodes shifted his stand on proposed Sunday sale of liquor during the last legislative session. He said that more recently the governor had approved sale of "Wonderful World of Ohio" whisky decanters by the case after announcing that they could not be purchased in state stores.

He added: "I believe that if we take the message to the people of this state, we can and will defeat this Republican administration of Rhodes, known as Whisky Jim."

Findlay Continues Probe in Sex Slaying

Military Sky Spies Lofted

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Eight satellites, including seven to speed secret military messages between Washington, Saigon and other strategic points, rode a mighty Titan 3 rocket today toward lofty outposts in space.

The 12-story-tall Titan — most powerful booster in the Defense Department arsenal — blasted off on its fourth test flight at 9 a. m. EST. Six hours later, the satellites were scheduled to zip into random circular orbits 21,000 miles above the equator, forming a jam-proof communications network in the skies.

Eight minutes after blastoff, the triple-barreled booster's acrobatic last stage settled with its payload into an orbit ranging from 104 to 115 miles above the earth. The air force said a later correction would put it into the desired 103-mile circular orbit.

Five U.S. Army ground terminals stood ready around the world to relay military test traffic through the orbiting vehicles.

The seven communications satellites—each capable of linking ground stations up to 10,350 miles apart—were built to carry messages between Washington and Viet Nam. Land lines and undersea cables are vulnerable to sabotage and natural interruption.

If this first batch proves such a system feasible, about eight more satellites will be sent up aboard another Titan 3 in August, followed by a third bunch next spring if necessary.

The eighth satellite launched today was an engineering experiment. It was to extend two 50-foot booms to test the feasibility of using the earth's gravitation as a means of stabilizing a spacecraft. Designers hope it will keep one arm always pointed toward earth.

The Defense Department has been using the Syncom 2 and Syncom 3 satellites for communication between Washington and Saigon for the past two years. The seven satellites launched today would greatly increase this capability.

No provisions have been made to tie the satellites launched today into civilian communication systems, but they could be put to work in recovery operations during future manned space flights.

U.S. Hopes DeGaulle To Soften on NATO

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States apparently hopes to persuade President Charles de Gaulle that France has a stake in allowing NATO bases to remain on her soil, even if most are reduced to a standby basis.

At the same time, Washington officials are anxious that the U.S. Air Force not be barred from flying French skies. Approval now is granted by France on a month-to-month basis.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara hinted this direction in U.S. thinking after announcing Wednesday that he has ordered the remaining 122 U.S. transport and reconnaissance planes and the bulk of American war stocks, some 575,000 tons, shifted out of France.

This was the first major action to comply with De Gaulle's demand that North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces leave France, although NATO leaders already have agreed to move the alliance's military headquarters from Paris to Belgium.

While doing this, McNamara obviously sought to avoid any appearance of a rupture. The defense secretary noted that De Gaulle has stated "unequivocally," as McNamara put it, that France intends to remain a member of the alliance.

"We welcome that statement," McNamara said. "We will do everything to cooperate with him to carry it out." Without being specific, McNamara said there are facilities in NATO that are beneficial to France.

"We presume she will continue to wish to use these benefits," he added. And in the next breath, McNamara said the United States "of course" hopes to continue to use French air space.

"This may be the tack along which the United States is planning to negotiate with the French on the future of some 30 major bases and installations, including a 500-mile fuel pipeline leading into West Germany.

In other developments relating to the NATO situation: U.S. officials were reported concerned that De Gaulle's plan to seek a basis for French-Soviet understanding on eventual unification of Germany may in some way be directed at reducing U.S. power and influence in Europe. And informed sources in Moscow said East European Communist foreign ministers are working in secret session to

'Sidewalk Sale' Plans Under Way

Things are starting to round into shape for Circleville's 5th annual "Sidewalk Sale."

The highly regarded sales extravaganza will be an event of July 14 this year. For the past four years, the event has been termed a major consumer attraction here.

Initial planning got under way early today when the Retail Merchants Committee, a functioning group of the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce, met for a breakfast session at Noel's Restaurant. The session was called by chairman Ward Skinner.

Many highlights are being planned, in addition to the normal display of outside merchandise. Included will be special events and entertainment throughout the day.

ANOTHER feature will be the awarding of prizes at 4 and 8 p. m. Participating merchants plan to start giving tickets relative to the prizes starting July 1.

The ducats will be presented with each purchase prior to the actual sales day. Committee spokesmen emphasized that ticket holders must be present to win.

Present efforts are being directed toward obtaining musical entertainment groups. The popular 2 by 4 Quartet from Asheville is expected to be on hand again. A clown will be present to distribute balloons and candy will be given away.

Members of Skinner's retail panel are Ernil Stonerock, Charles Boggs, H. H. Licker, Garland Noel, Thomas Purcell, Charles Schieber and Forrest Thomerson.

Wage-Price Guideposts Said 'Dead'

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany was reported today to consider President Johnson's wage-price guidelines "a dead issue."

A source close to Meany said organized labor apparently has won its long fight to bury the White House guidelines. "We're not even having to beat them over the head about it anymore," he added.

This reported victory seems to be further evidence that Johnson's bent and battered wage-price guidelines, originally designed to prevent an inflationary wage-price spiral, are headed for the conomic scrap heap.

"The indications are that they (the guidelines) are on the way out or already out," said a high source.

The guideposts were the administration's chief weapon in the psychological war against inflation during last year's sharp rise in prices.

Prices have been rising even more sharply so far this year. But Johnson hasn't mentioned the guidepost theory in months, despite several labor contract settlements far in excess of the 3.2 per cent per year limit on wage increases suggested by Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers.

Puerto Rican Area In Chicago Is Quiet

CHICAGO (AP) — Tight police control brought peace to a Northwest Side area Wednesday night for the first time since Puerto Rican crowds began a running battle with police Sunday.

Arnell Cruz, 20, whose arrest and subsequent shooting by a policeman first brought crowds into the streets, was released from police supervision in a hospital when several Puerto Rican community groups raised his $5,000 bond.

Cuba Said Bleeding Political Prisoners

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Exiles claim the Fidel Castro regime is executing political prisoners en masse, bleeding them first, and sending their blood to Communist Viet Nam.

There were 166 executions last May 27 at La Cabana fortress prison in Havana, Dr. Miguel Angel Olba Benito, secretary-general of the Commission for Humane Treatment for Political Prisoners in Cuba, told an exile meeting Wednesday night.

Before shooting the prisoners, an average of seven pints of blood was extracted from each, said Dr. Olba Benito, formerly a prominent Cuban lawyer.

He addressed the Cuban Lions Club in Exile at a special meeting in memory of three members of the club executed two years ago in Cuba.

Combat Dead Figures Climb

142 Yanks Die In Recent Week

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — American combat dead climbed to the third highest level of the year last week, reflecting in part the cost of the victory over a North Vietnamese regiment in the central highlands.

The U. S. military command said 142 Americans were killed, 741 wounded and one missing or captured last week compared with 109 killed, 636 wounded and 148 missing in the week of May 29-June 4.

A total of 156 Americans died in the week of March 7-13, when a Monday through Sunday reporting period was being used; and 146 in the regular week of May 15-21.

The latest toll brought the number of U. S. servicemen reported killed by enemy fire since Jan. 1 to 1,956 and to 3,804 since Jan. 1, 1961.

The unofficial count of Americans wounded for the year climbed to 12,213.

The allies reported 1,240 Communists killed last week, an increase of 338, and 166 captured, an increase of 46.

This compared with a total of 29 allied troops reported killed. The South Vietnamese government said 151 of its troops were killed and 30 missing last week compared with 121 killed and 23 missing in the previous seven days. The government does not report wounded.

Australian, South Korean and New Zealand forces reported a total of six battle deaths and 14 wounded, compared with 14 dead and 18 wounded the week before.

Beat Singer To Assist Evangelist

LONDON (AP) — British pop idol Cliff Richard, minus the backing of beat guitars, was on the program to sing tonight for evangelist Billy Graham's Greater London Crusade.

Teen-age fans are expected to show up in force at the giant Earl's Court Exhibition Center.

But the screams they normally reserve for the 25-year-old star will be stilled as he sings the simple gospel song "It's No Secret."

Cliff, who has talked of retiring from show business to become a divinity teacher, said he is not worried that his beat fans will think him "soft."

"Anyone who thinks a Christian is soft can think again," he told newsmen.

"It took me a long time to pluck up enough courage to tell the world, 'I'm a Christian.'"

"But when I did I knew I had scored. Now I can make something out of my life."

After Friday night's crusade, Graham will tour Soho, a sleazy square mile of vice in London's west end, where Cliff Richard was first discovered.

Airport Future May Depend on Survey of Site

Whether a proposed Pickaway-Ross County joint airport will be constructed apparently hinges on a surveyor's level.

Commissioners of the two counties met here Wednesday night and agreed to ask their engineers to make a survey of the proposed site.

The purpose of the survey is to determine cost of leveling a knoll which would be in the path of the main airport runway.

The proposed site is located near the Pickaway-Ross county line, east of U. S. Route 23 and south of the secondary state highway leading to Logan Elm Park.

THE REPORT of the engineers may well write finis to the joint airport venture. While admitting they had little engineering knowledge, the commissioners expressed the opinion that cost of leveling the proposed area may be prohibitive.

Present for the meeting in the local Courthouse were Pickaway's three commissioners, Wayne Hines, Lloyd Melvin and Charles Morris Jr. Representing Ross County were Commissioners Emerson Brown, Alfred Immell and John Meeker.

There seemed to be a consensus that should a joint airport be constructed, it would be done without federal funds. Only local donations and state monies would be utilized.

Commissioner Brown was outspoken in this point. He said he wanted no part of a federal airport project. Brown contended that acceptance of federal funds would also bring "strings attached" which he opposed. The state money, he declared, was "voted by the people and

Plains Buffeted By Heavy Rain, Hail

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Severe thunderstorms, whipped by strong winds, buffeted Oklahoma and bordering areas of Texas and Arkansas early today.

The storms, accompanied by heavy rain and hail, were driven by winds up to 70 miles an hour in and around Oklahoma City. Roof damage, felled trees and some power failures were reported in Oklahoma City.

Less intense thunderstorms also moved across Missouri to the upper Ohio Valley.

Skies were clearing over most of the Southwest, the north-central states and the Far West.

A warming sun made temperatures comfortable today in the north-central part of the nation.

Once Around Roundtown

CIRCLEVILLE Police today received a call from Mrs. Antionette Billings reporting she had a large shell in her possession she had taken from children who were playing with it near her home.

Police picked up the shell and notified the 71st Army Ordnance group located at Wilmington. A specialist was dispatched to Circleville. The shell was identified as a practice round of antiaircraft ammunition. It was harmless.

However, Chief of Police Robert Temple emphasized today his department should be notified immediately anytime ammunition of this type which could contain high explosives is found.

THE GROWER of the first ripe tomato reported in Circleville this year divulged his secret of success today. At the same time, he announced he is "retiring from active competition to give some of the old timers a chance."

Martin Garner, who reported his accomplishment this week, said he has carried the plant for miles. He has kept the plant in a pot.

"Everytime the sun went behind a cloud, I took it inside," Garner said. He also said he potted the plant in soil from an old greenhouse. As the plant grew, he would transplant it into a larger pot. He does not remember the exact day he purchased the plant, only that it was "before Mother's Day."

Nanking University Rector Is 'Purged'

TOKYO (AP) — Another university head, the rector in Nanking, is victim of the purge in Communist China.

Radio Peking announced today that Kuang Ya-ming, rector of Nanking University, was stripped of all his duties because of his "ignoble and villainous conspiracy to suppress the revolutionary movement" in the university.

Kuang's ouster came after he "counterattacked" against students and professors who had accused him of failing to follow the teachings of party Chairman Mao Tze-tung, Radio Peking said.

Unethical Medical Experiments Hit

BOSTON (AP) — A Harvard Medical School professor says unethical experiments are being performed on humans without their consent, and cites examples involving more than 1,000 persons.

Dr. Henry K. Beecher, director of Harvard's anesthesia laboratory at Massachusetts General Hospital and chairman of a faculty committee studying ethics in human experiments, makes the charges in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Journal editors who reviewed the article in the latest issue certified the 22 examples given as accurate and correctly described. They said 28 others he submitted were not included for reasons of space.

"It is evident that in many of the examples presented, the investigators have risked the health or life of their subjects," Dr. Beecher wrote.

His examples, he said, are from leading medical schools, university hospitals, private hospitals, governmental military departments (Army, Navy, Air Force), governmental institutes, Veterans Administration hospitals and industry.

It is evident, Dr. Beecher wrote, "that unethical or questionably ethical procedures are not uncommon."

In only two of the 50 cases originally compiled for the study, Dr. Beecher said, was the consent of the patient mentioned. Even then, he said, "statements regarding consent are meaningless unless one knows how fully the patient was informed of all risks and if these are not known, the fact made clear."

Dr. Beecher said he wished to affirm that "American medicine is sound and most progress in it soundly attained," but cautioned:

"I believe the type of activities mentioned will do great harm to medicine unless soon corrected."

Mansfield Urges U.S.-China Talks

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield proposed today a face-to-face meeting between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Red China's Foreign Minister Chen Yi to discuss a peaceful settlement of the Viet Nam war.

The Senate Democratic leader said in a speech prepared for Yeshiva University graduates that the war threatens to become in the end a U.S.-Chinese conflict, just as in Korea.

"What is needed most, at this time, is in the light of that danger, is an initiative for a direct contact between the Peking government and our own government on the problem of peace in Viet Nam and South-east Asia," Mansfield said.

"This problem is of such transcendent importance," he added, "that it is a fit question for face-to-face discussion between China and the United States at the highest practicable level."

"Our secretary of state, Dean Rusk, confronted the Chinese foreign minister, Chen Yi, across the conference table at Geneva in 1961-62. It may be that a similar meeting now would be useful in this critical situation."

He said such a conference could be confined to the two nations, or "it could include the nations of the Southeast Asian mainland since they all lie in the swathe of the war's spreading devastation."

Mansfield said he does not regard the membership nor the mechanics of the conference as important.

"History will not be gentle with those who pursue the shadow and evade the substance of peace," he said. "It will not view with sympathy those who stand too much on ceremony or who insist too much on face as the price of coming to grips with its profound problems."

He said he is not optimistic that any conference with the Chinese at this point would produce much more than a cease-fire. But he said the "first faltering steps" must be taken toward peace.

Mansfield, who has criticized some aspects of President Johnson's Viet Nam policy, said efforts to end the war "by waging more war" have failed. He conceded that efforts to end it "by waging less war" have not succeeded.

He rejected the idea that the fighting can be ended more quickly "by more and better placed bombings" in North Viet Nam.

What he fears, the Montana senator said, is that in an escalating war the "hatches of avoidance" may be closed one by one and mainland China may send troops into Viet Nam.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Selective Service headquarters issued a gross Ohio induction call for July today for 2,590 men to meet the net induction requirements for 1,554 men. Airport Future May Depend on Survey of Site

Whether a proposed Pickaway-Ross County joint airport will be constructed apparently hinges on a surveyor's level.

Commissioners of the two counties met here Wednesday night and agreed to ask their engineers to make a survey of the proposed site.

The proposed site is located near the Pickaway-Ross county line, east of U. S. Route 23 and south of the secondary state highway leading to Logan Elm Park.

THE REPORT of the engineers may well write the final chapter on the joint airport venture. While admitting they had little engineering knowledge, the commissioners expressed the opinion that cost of leveling the proposed area may be prohibitive.

Present for the meeting in the local Courthouse were Pickaway's three commissioners, Wayne Hines, Lloyd Melvin and Charles Morris Jr. Representing Ross County were Commissioners Emerson Brown, Alfred Immell and John Meeker.

There seemed to be a consensus that should a joint airport be constructed, it would be done without federal funds. Only local donations and state monies would be utilized.

Commissioner Brown was outspoken in this point. He said he wanted no part of a federal airport project. Brown contended that acceptance of federal funds would also bring "strings attached" which he opposed. The state money, he declared, was "voted by the people and

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Severe thunderstorms, whipped by strong winds, buffeted Oklahoma and bordering areas of Texas and Arkansas early today.

The storms, accompanied by heavy rain and hail, were driven by winds up to 70 miles an hour in and around Oklahoma City. Roof damage, felled trees and some power failures were reported in Oklahoma City.

Less intense thunderstorms also moved across Missouri to the upper Ohio Valley.

Skies were clearing over most of the Southwest, the north-central states and the Far West.

A warming sun made temperatures comfortable today in the north-central part of the nation.

Senate Plans Vacation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate plans to take a week off for the July 4th holiday so members can return in the words of Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield "refreshed and replenished."

Once Around Roundtown

CIRCLEVILLE Police today received a call from Mrs. Antionette Billings reporting she had a large shell in her possession she had taken from children who were playing with it near her home.

Police picked up the shell and notified the 71st Army Ordnance group located at Wilmington. A specialist was dispatched to Circleville. The shell was identified as a practice round of antiaircraft ammunition. It was harmless.

However, Chief of Police Robert Temple emphasized today his department should be notified immediately anytime ammunition of this type which could contain high explosives is found.

THE GROWER of the first ripe tomato reported in Circleville this year divulged his secret of success today. At the same time, he announced he is "retiring from active competition to give some of the old timers a chance."

Martin Garner, who reported his accomplishment this week, said he has carried the plant for miles. He has kept the plant in a pot.

"Everytime the sun went behind a cloud, I took it inside," Garner said. He also said he potted the plant in soil from an old greenhouse. As the plant grew, he would transplant it into a larger pot. He does not remember the exact day he purchased the plant, only that it was "before Mother's Day."

Nanking University Rector Is 'Purged'

TOKYO (AP) — Another university head, the rector in Nanking, is victim of the purge in Communist China.

Radio Peking announced today that Kuang Ya-ming, rector of Nanking University, was stripped of all his duties because of his "ignoble and villainous conspiracy to suppress the revolutionary movement" in the university.

Kuang's ouster came after he "counterattacked" against students and professors who had accused him of failing to follow the teachings of party Chairman Mao Tze-tung, Radio Peking said.

Unethical Medical Experiments Hit

BOSTON (AP) — A Harvard Medical School professor says unethical experiments are being performed on humans without their consent, and cites examples involving more than 1,000 persons.

Dr. Henry K. Beecher, director of Harvard's anesthesia laboratory at Massachusetts General Hospital and chairman of a faculty committee studying ethics in human experiments, makes the charges in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Journal editors who reviewed the article in the latest issue certified the 22 examples given as accurate and correctly described. They said 23 others he submitted were not included for reasons of space.

"It is evident that in many of the examples presented, the investigators have risked the health or life of their subjects," Dr. Beecher wrote.

His examples, he said, are from leading medical schools, university hospitals, private hospitals, governmental military departments (Army, Navy, Air Force), governmental institutes, Veterans Administration hospitals and industry.

It is evident, Dr. Beecher wrote, "that unethical or questionably ethical procedures are not uncommon."

In only two of the 50 cases originally compiled for the study, Dr. Beecher, said, was the consent of the patient mentioned.

Even then, he said, "statements regarding consent are meaningless unless one knows how fully the patient was informed of all risks and if these are not known, the fact made clear."

Dr. Beecher said he wished to affirm that "American medicine is sound and most progress in it soundly attained," but cautioned:

"I believe the type of activities mentioned will do great harm to medicine unless soon corrected."

Stock Mart Is Irregular

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined irregularly in moderate trading early this afternoon.

Losses of fractions to a point or more among key stocks were overbalancing gainers as the session wore on.

The list was a mixed affair most of the morning and there were times when the number of gainers outnumbered losers even though market averages were working their way down fairly consistently.

The glamor section of the list, including airlines, aerospace issues, electronics, color televisions and others, was mostly lower.

The trend was to the downside also among steels, oils, tobacco and chemicals.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.2 at 322.3 with industrials down 2.1, rails unchanged and utilities off .7.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.84 at 897.27.

Herbert Moore, 34, Ashville, was fined a total of $350 and costs in Circleville Municipal Court yesterday.

Moore, cited by the Ohio State Highway Patrol following an accident in the village of Ashville, was charged with driving without a license and with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants.

He entered pleas of innocent to both counts. The arresting officer told the court Moore had been a resident of Ohio for nine years and had never had an Ohio driver's license.

In addition to the fine, Judge Sterling Lamb sentenced Moore to three days in the county jail and ordered his driving rights suspended for three years.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Scattered thundershowers and increasing humidity slowed the advance of a six-day-old brush and timber fire in the mountain wilderness of Los Padres National Forest.

They had contained half the fire's 100-mile perimeter early today but officials would give no estimate when full containment would be gained.

Ky Pushes Buddhists Farther into Corner

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky pushed his radical Buddhists opponents farther into a corner today by sending his paratroopers into Hue and slapping a 9 p.m. nightly curfew on Saigon.

The paratroopers opened fire on dissident Vietnamese soldiers who tried to stage a march with Buddhist banners in the northern city. The marchers fled after a heavy burst of fire, and some blood on the street indicated casualties.

Apparently confident of crushing the Buddhist rebellion, the junta moved firmly ahead against its opponents.

A story of U.S. Marine battlefield valor unfolded on a hillside 325 miles northeast of Saigon where 30 U.S. marines held off 300 Viet Cong for five hours during the night.

When the Leathernecks ran out of ammunition, they fought on with bayonets and finally rocks until Marine helicopters, planes and reinforcements helped drive the Communists off. A U.S. spokesman said all but two of the Marines were killed or wounded, but the platoon killed 32 of the attackers. U.S. jets continued heavy attacks on North Viet Nam, flying 66 missions during which they dodged nine Soviet-made surface-to-air missiles. Two planes were lost to conventional groundfire, bringing the number of American planes shot down over the Communist north to 265. One of the pilots was rescued by helicopter.

Ky's 500 paratroopers rolled into Hue at dawn to a chorus of jeering, drum-beating Buddhists, but they quickly hauled Buddhist altars off main streets and took positions at the radio station and one of the bridges across the Perfume River.

The soldiers fired a few tear-gas canisters and shots into the air. But with the help of 600 combat policemen sent in by Ky last week, they carried off the operation without any concerted resistance from the armed Buddhist youths and dissident troops who have kept the city of 160,000 in open rebellion for weeks.

Thousands of homemade altars still remained in the streets at dusk. However, Ky's forces seemed to be in control of key points and most of the populace continued about its routine activities.

Saigon's military governor declared the 9 p.m. to 4 a.m. curfew until further notice because, he charged, the Viet Cong were preparing to exploit the Buddhist agitation with "large-scale subversion." The curfew was imposed "to protect the people's lives and property and maintain security," he said.

Riot police and ranger battalions dispersed half a dozen Buddhist demonstrations in Saigon as disorders continue in the capital for the fourth consecutive day.

LONDON (AP)—Another revolt by some members of Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party met the usual crashing defeat Wednesday night when the voting test came.

The caucus of Labor members of the House of Commons voted 225-54 to reject a motion by left and right wingers calling for the withdrawal of British troops east of Suez. Wilson told them such a move would be "the surest prescription for a nuclear holocaust I can think of."

Wilson's critics sought to cut defense spending in Malaysia, Singapore and the Persian Gulf. They accused the government of continuing to act like a great power abroad while the nation is in dire economic straits.

HAVANA (AP) — An airline flight engineer who killed two men when he tried to hijack a plane was executed immediately after his conviction Wednesday, and a Roman Catholic priest who gave him refuge was sentenced to 15 years in prison.

Angel Maria Betancourt Cueto was executed by a firing squad at dawn after a trial in La Cabana Fortress that began Tuesday afternoon.

He killed a guard aboard a Soviet-built Ilyushin 18 airliner on March 27 and ordered the pilot to fly to Miami. When the pilot tricked him and landed at Havana Airport, Betancourt shot him to death and escaped.

He was captured two weeks later in a Roman Catholic convent. The Rev. Miguel A. Loredo Garcia was sentenced for hiding him there but another priest was acquitted.

LONDON (AP) — Britain's House of Lords is going on television.

Parliament's upper house voted 56-31 Wednesday night to allow its proceedings to be televised live. Talks will be held with the British Broadcasting Corp. to arrange the details.

The House of Commons, which adopts Britain's laws, has appointed an all-party committee to consider televising its meetings.

Stock Mart Is Irregular

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market declined irregularly in moderate trading early this afternoon.

Losses of fractions to a point or more among key stocks were overbalancing gainers as the session wore on.

The list was a mixed affair most of the morning and there were times when the number of gainers outnumbered losers even though market averages were working their way down fairly consistently.

The glamor section of the list, including airlines, aerospace issues, electronics, color television and others, was mostly lower.

The trend was to the downside also among steels, oils, tobacco and chemicals.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.2 at 322.3 with industrials down 2.1, rails unchanged and utilities off .7.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.84 at 897.27.

Nursing Homes Braced For Medicare's Boom

EDITOR'S NOTE — Even before it goes into effect, the medicare program seems to be pointing to some glaring shortages in the nation's medical facilities. The following second of four articles explains the effect of the program on nursing homes, bracing for an onrush of elderly patients.

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Science Writer

However medicare weathers its first critical months — the predicted increase of elderly patients July 1 — it will come upon on a second deadline that could potentially jam up hospitals even more than the first.

That deadline is Jan. 1, 1967. On that day, nursing home provisions for persons 65 and older go into effect.

The problem is two-fold. First, patients must spend three days in a regular hospital before qualifying for the nursing home care for chronic ailments. Second, there is now and has been a shortage of capable nursing homes and beds.

An Associated Press survey of hospitals and doctors across the country indicate that the great worry is that elderly patients seeking nursing home care, and unable to find it, might back up into the general hospitals.

What medicare seems to be doing, even before it goes into effect, is to point to some glaring shortages in the nation's medical facilities.

In any case, hospital administrators say, increasing the number of beds devoted to chronic, long-term cases could hamper general hospital ability to care for the acutely ill — from the acute appendix case to the emergency room patient.

Said the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in a report to President Johnson:

"There is a significant shortage of health personnel and certain health facilities that has been evident for some time. Medicare, of course, did not create these shortages, but by putting older people in the same position as others to compete for services, the program will have the effect of adding to the present demand for medical services."

Many hospital authorities fear that the nursing home provisions might backfire.

Clarence W. Bushnell, administrator of the hospital in Bridgeport, Conn., said, "I foresee a massive increase in patients in January 1967 to qualify for nursing home care."

In Michigan, administrators also expressed concern about the shortage of qualified nursing beds.

J. Henry Irwin, head of Reed City Hospital, said: "The thing we are concerned about is that many cases that were being treated at home of a semichronic nature will be admitted because they now feel it is their right and the obligation and duty of the doctor to admit them."

Much the same fear was voiced by Dr. Tenery D. Caruso, a Los Angeles surgeon. "I can say that all of the people in rest homes will want to go into hospitals to conform with these regulations, and this will be a terrific load that the hospitals will have to carry for a while," he said.

Not all the hospitals nor the doctors expressed this kind of fear.

Some said in fact that the change would be for the good. Municipal and county hospitals in the more populous, wealthier states like California and New York saw a shift in patient admittance, with many patients now seeking private hospitals rather than government-sponsored institutions because the medicare bill would now pay their way in the smaller, often more expensive facilities.

In some areas nursing home provisions were not expected to have an adverse impact, but actually a good one.

John Brewer, executive director of the Hospital Council of Southern California, said many county hospitals will now be freed of chronic disease loads because of the paid nursing home care.

How much can be done between now and the New Year's Day deadline to increase the number of nursing home beds is a question without an answer at present.

To many critics of medicare, the three-day requirement is the worst and potentially most damaging of the program's provisions. It will take effect in winter, when acute disease loads and respiratory ailments are at their peak.

And all of these elements will be complicated by a still greater problem that has been with medicine for some time, and now seems even more critical — the shortage of nurses and trained hospital help.

And that is the third obstacle that medicare must face.

Next: The outnumbered nurses.

Nursing Homes Braced For Medicare's Boom

EDITOR'S NOTE — Even before it goes into effect, the medicare program seems to be pointing to some glaring shortages in the nation's medical facilities. The following second of four articles explains the effect of the program on nursing homes, bracing for an onrush of elderly patients.

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Science Writer

However medicare weathers its first critical months — the predicted increase of elderly patients July 1 — it will come upon a second deadline that could potentially jam up hospitals even more than the first.

That deadline is Jan. 1, 1967. On that day, nursing home provisions for persons 65 and older go into effect.

The problem is two-fold. First, patients must spend three days in a regular hospital before qualifying for the nursing home care for chronic ailments. Second, there is now and has been a shortage of capable nursing homes and beds.

An Associated Press survey of hospitals and doctors across the country indicate that the great worry is that elderly patients seeking nursing home care, and unable to find it, might back up into the general hospitals.

What medicare seems to be doing, even before it goes into effect, is to point to some glaring shortages in the nation's medical facilities.

In any case, hospital administrators say, increasing the number of beds devoted to chronic, long-term cases could hamper general hospital ability to care for the acutely ill — from the acute appendix case to the emergency room patient.

Said the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in a report to President Johnson:

"There is a significant shortage of health personnel and certain health facilities that has been evident for some time. Medicare, of course, did not create these shortages, but by putting older people in the same position as others to compete for services, the program will have the effect of adding to the present demand for medical services."

Many hospital authorities fear that the nursing home provisions might backfire. Clarence W. Bushnell, administrator of the hospital in Bridgeport, Conn., said, "I foresee a massive increase in patients in January 1967 to qualify for nursing home care."

In Michigan administrators also expressed concern about the shortage of qualified nursing beds.

J. Henry Irwin, head of Reed City Hospital, said: "The thing we are concerned about is that many cases that were being treated at home of a semichronic nature will be admitted because they now feel it is their right and the obligation and duty of the doctor to admit them."

Much the same fear was voiced by Dr. Tenery D. Caruso, a Los Angeles surgeon. "I can say that all of the people in rest homes will want to go into hospitals to conform with these regulations, and this will be a terrific load that the hospitals will have to carry for a while," he said.

Not all the hospitals nor the doctors expressed this kind of fear.

Some said in fact that the change would be for the good. Municipal and county hospitals in the more populous, wealthier states like California and New York saw a shift in patient admittance, with many patients now seeking private hospitals rather than government-sponsored institutions because the medicare bill would now pay their way in the smaller, often more expensive facilities.

In some areas nursing home provisions were not expected to have an adverse impact, but actually a good one.

John Brewer, executive director of the Hospital Council of Southern California, said many county hospitals will now be freed of chronic disease loads because of the paid nursing home care.

How much can be done between now and the New Year's Day deadline to increase the number of nursing home beds is a question without an answer at present.

To many critics of medicare, the three-day requirement is the worst and potentially most damaging of the program's provisions. It will take effect in winter, when acute disease loads and respiratory ailments are at their peak.

And all of these elements will be complicated by a still greater problem that has been with medicine for some time, and now seems even more critical — the shortage of nurses and trained hospital help.

And that is the third obstacle that medicare must face.

Next: The outnumbered nurses.

150-Pound 'Kitty' Helps To Guard Service Station

MILL VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Ever since a gang of hoodlums beat up an attendant at Harry Fitzgibbon's gasoline service station, a 150-pound guard has been on duty. He is a South American jaguar.

Fitzgibbon had a Richmond, Calif. importer ship the year-old animal — trained since birth for protection work — from Paraguay.

The jaguar, Kitty, operates at the end of a 15-foot chain.

"Kitty responds like a police dog, if not better," says Rich Brammar, one of the station attendants.

"He will lie down, sit up or go get something the minute he's told. Sometimes he sleeps in the office window. But he also will go after somebody on command."

Off duty, the jaguar is regarded as a nice, safe pet by the four children at Fitzgibbon's home.

But he has a look of fury at the station.

In the early hours of May 30, a roving band of youths plagued attendant Joe Ghazar for 30 cents worth of gas, then "a penny more, now another penny more." When some of them tried to steal oil, Ghazar told the youths to leave. They beat him up and tried to set fire to the station.

So Fitzgibbon put in a rush order for Kitty. The jaguar has known neither cage nor jungle. He is a seventh-generation of domesticated jaguars.

The nights are quiet now at Harry's place.

Song of Hope

There is a great song in this nation's repertoire which should be heard more often. "America" is a song of strength. "My country, 'tis of thee; sweet land of liberty." This is the voice of hope. "Long may our land be bright with freedom's holy light." What more could Americans desire? It could mean the absence of fear from aggression, security for future generations. Something to sing about and to hope for. It should not be forgotten that when you sing "America" you are singing about "my country." Not "your country" or "our country." That is the obligation every American must assume if it is to endure. Otherwise it will be meaningless to sing, "Protect us by Thy might, great God, our King."

"Nobody said anything about trading YOU in!"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

NOT EVERY newspaper editor, testifies author Dick Schaap, is precisely a mental giant. Take the one, for example, who sent a reporter to cover the local post office and cook up a story on how much fuss was being kicked up by the rise of first-class postage stamps from four to five cents for ordinary mail. The reporter came back, chuckling, to tell about the lady who was buying all the four-cent stamps she could afford before the price went up. The editor pondered momentarily, then said, "Go back to that post office and pick up five dollars' worth of those four-cent stamps for me!"

Schaap remembers two other stories about alert editors-in-chief. One scanned a drama critic's review in which, because of a typographical error, the word "brilliant" came out "grilliant." "Grilliant, eh?" beamed the editor. "I like that fellow's vocabulary. We need more fresh, punchy words like that in our copy." The other editor sneered at by-lines. "Who cares what author wrote a story or a book?" he demanded. "For instance, who remembers today the names of the men who wrote those Horatio Alger or Rudyard Kipling stories?"

OVERHEARD:

In St. Paul: "I eat my three meals a day, I've got a roof over my head, two cars, a boat, a beautiful wife, and three wonderful kids. Is it any wonder I'm in debt up to my ears?"
At a fortune teller's: "You should be very happy, ma'am. A nobler man than your husband you have yet to meet." Client: "Hooraay! But when?"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. GOLDFMAN, M.D.

My husband is a very tense man and is easily upset by any situation at home or at business. He has been taking a tranquilizing drug for a number of years. I have noticed that he needs to take these drugs as many as six or eight times a day. He started by taking only one. Could this be a form of drug addiction?

Mrs. C. C. Wisconsin

Dear Mrs. C.: A distinction must be made between addiction and dependence on a drug. Technically the dependence on a tranquilizing drug cannot be classed with addiction to narcotics.

Tensions and emotional disturbances occur at school, home, work and even at play. Tranquilizing drugs and mood elevators are sometimes given by physicians to patients to carry them over a difficult period.

These drugs are never meant to be a permanent factor in the lives of the patients for whom they are prescribed. Such drugs are meant to be used only until such time as the underlying reasons for tensions are uncovered and treated.

In order to function as a happy human being your husband must be encouraged to seek some psychological guidance for a greater understanding of the "why" of his emotional discomfort.

We have twin daughters, both married and mothers. One carries out all her obligations without any concern. When the children are sick she handles them casually and without panic. My other daughter reads medical columns, medical books and avidly listens to medical television programs and then becomes terrorized when her children become sick.

How can she be helped? Mrs. B. H., Massachusetts
Dear Mrs. H.: Twins, even identical twins, brought up in the same household, under the same circumstances, are really two different people. There are many factors that go into making a total person besides heredity and environment. It is not unusual therefore that one daughter reacts differently to the same circumstances.

Interest and curiosity in medicine is completely understandable. Good health is the very foundation of the family structure.

Readers and listeners are often confused by "symptoms that sound just like theirs." Symptoms resemble each other so closely that it takes the discerning sense of the physician to distinguish between them.

When physicians were medical students they, too, had all the diseases and all the symptoms that they were studying that particular day.

Your daughter must be encouraged by simple reasoning to understand that she is not qualified to make the subtle distinction between symptoms that seem to be identical.

Whether you feed a cold or starve a fever is not as important as not neglecting a spring or summer cold.

Assembling Experts

By John Chamberlain

Not too long ago the New York publishing firm of Random House put out a book called "The Vietnam Hearings," consisting of the testimony offered on the Vietnamese War by General James Gavin, General Maxwell Taylor, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, and George Kennan before Fulbright's Senate Foreign Relations Committee. What is curious about this particular publication of a selection from committee hearings by a trade publisher is that it violated the accepted practice of the past. For, by immemorial custom, committee hearing material has generally gone to the Government Printing Office for publication in its entirety before being made available to a profit-making commercial publisher.

The matter may not be deemed very important, for public hearings are not copyrighted, and maybe the Foreign Relations Committee members don't mind Bill Fulbright's willfulness and occasionally autocratic behavior in doing what he wants with the material under his thumb. Even so, the ease with which Senator Fulbright manages to catch the headlines by manipulating "experts" with a cunning hand commends itself to students of propaganda techniques. The presence of Dean Rusk in the Random House volume was unavoidable; after all, he is the man who represents official foreign policy. But if you can bounce Gavin and George Kennan and, to a lesser extent, Maxwell Taylor against Rusk's alleged "rigidity," you can pretty much dictate your own pattern of thinking.

Choreography is everything in this business of taking "expert" testimony. In the hearings on Red China, the favored time was given to such academic experts as Harvard Professor John K. Fairbank and Columbia's A. Doak Barnett, both of them advocates of a more or less conciliatory line toward the Mao dictatorship. The experts who disputed Fairbank and Barnett, such men as David Rowe and George Taylor, managed to have their say, but it was, so to speak, to a largely empty house.

International headlines being what they are, the Taiwan Chinese were left with the impression that Fairbank and Barnett were speaking for all America when they advocated "flexibility" in handling such things as Red China's right to be in the United Nations. So we have a set of counter hearings before the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Legislative Yuan in Taiwan.

Five Taiwan "experts" on Red China - Dr. Chien Su-liang, President of the National Taiwan University; Archbishop Paul Yuen, Rector of the Catholic University; Chow Ching-wen, publisher of the Hong Kong fortnightly "Modern Critique"; Yang Yu-tse, publisher of the Taipei "Democratic China"; and Hsu Wei-shun, former professor of the Peking Normal University who fled from Red China last year - told the legislative Yuan Committee that the so-called "China experts" in the United States were speaking nonsense if they thought a "two-China" policy is possible. And 1,666 Chinese professors and scholars signed an open letter to the American people designed to refute the views of Professors Fairbank and Doak Barnett. The letter remarked that Barnett shut his eyes to the fact of 249,012 saboteurs on the Chinese mainland in 1961, which is cited to prove that the Red Chinese have already been in control of their own people.

The fact that 1,666 teachers and scholars can be found in Taiwan to object to the emphases of the Fulbright Hearings is nothing remarkable. After all, it is the Taiwan ox that has been gored by Bill Fulbright. But the point is that patterns in hearings emerge, not as free testimony from all comers dictates, but as the impresarios in charge of hearings decide in their lordly way. Fulbright wants to be "soft" toward Red China; therefore he finds a lead-off "expert" who believes in something called "containment without isolation."

The Taiwan Legislative Yuan is outraged by the Fulbright conclusions; therefore its "experts" tell us that "containment without isolation" is an illusion.

But it is Fulbright who makes land in 1961, which is cited to point of view" struggles fitfully to be heard against the din.

Dog Tests Show Trait Inherited

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — He cowers on the floor, eyes wild, muscles taut, starkly frightened.

He is E53, a dog — and a nervous wreck.

But E53 hasn't been subjected to duress; he hasn't been harassed or tortured; his life isn't stressful.

Like emotionally normal dogs living under the same circumstances, he is regularly well-fed in clean, dry, well-kept kennels. Physically, he seems healthy and well.

Emotionally, he's a shambles. And it's no accident.

E53 is a product of selective breeding — a research project by three doctors who believe that genes, the carriers of inherited traits, are a big factor in mental stability, in man as well as dog.

"The first thing everyone asks is 'What have you done to those dogs?'" said Dr. O. D. Murphree, psychologist at Veterans Administration Hospital here. "All we have done is select the parents."

The study is a collaborative effort by Murphree and Drs. R. A. Dykman and J. E. Peters of the University of Arkansas Medical Center in Little Rock.

Together they have bred two separate strains of bird dogs: the "E line" — dogs like E53; and the "A line" — "normal" dogs that act like the family pet.

Both groups are treated alike. The finger is pointed at genes because environmental differences have been reduced to almost none.

The researchers believe their study has produced evidence to challenge the idea that environment is the major factor in mental instability.

"What we get in our study indicates that genes are the major factor," Murphree said.

For three generations under standardized conditions, healthy dogs have produced healthy offspring; the bizarre have yielded bizarre.

There is, of course, that variable; the 10 per cent who don't turn out quite like others in their line.

With financial support from a number of agencies, the research began in 1961 and the evidence started rolling in.

After a few months, the first generation "E line" dogs began to show emotional instability — fleeing from human approach, cowering at the most harmless gesture.

There is some evidence that the instability shows up at younger ages with each succeeding generation — a trend Murphree called the "self-limiting factor."

"It isn't uncommon to hear someone say that nervous disease appeared late in the life of a member of a family, then in the middle years of his offspring, and in the youth of the next generation," he said.

The factor is self-limiting because eventually one becomes so withdrawn that he produces no offspring.

School Fuss Still Brewing

Tallmadge Board To Hire New Chief

KENT, Ohio (AP) — While a panel of the Ohio Education Association is here to air problems in the Tallmadge School System, the board of education is expected to name a new school superintendent.

The controversy which brought the panel here concerns the firing of former Supt. Thomas O. Morgan.

The board is expected to hire Dr. David L. Moberly, 37, who resigned this week as superintendent of Newbury Schools in Ceauga County.

Mrs. Lauretta Redner, board president, said Dr. Moberly is "a good public relations man, besides being quite strong in curriculum, and should be able to quiet troubled waters."

Mrs. Redner said she and two other board members, Ray Vititoe and Karl Starks, will see the panel Friday.

"Since we're the ones they (the Tallmadge Teachers Association) want to put out, we'll face the panel together," she said.

Officials of the teachers association saw the panel Wednesday.

Also among Wednesday's witnesses was Norman Griggs, Tallmadge junior high school principal who recently resigned after 10 years in the system.

Griggs accused the board of harassment of teachers and said the question of "who's going to be next" on the firing list had become a community joke.

Bernard I. Griffith, OEA professional relations director, said the panel would meet next month to approve a final report for publication.

Panel chairman is Dr. Victor Wood, superintendent of Salem Public Schools.

Dog Tests Show Trait Inherited

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — He cowers on the floor, eyes wild, muscles taut, starkly frightened.

He is E53, a dog — and a nervous wreck.

But E53 hasn't been subjected to duress; he hasn't been harassed or tortured; his life isn't stressful.

Like emotionally normal dogs living under the same circumstances, he is regularly well-fed in clean, dry, well-kept kennels. Physically, he seems healthy and well.

Tollmadge Board To Hire New Chief

KENT, Ohio (AP) — While a panel of the Ohio Education Association is here to air problems in the Tollmadge School System, the board of education is expected to name a new school superintendent.

The controversy which brought the panel here concerns the firing of former Supt. Thomas O. Morgan.

The board is expected to hire Dr. David L. Moberly, 37, who resigned this week as superintendent of Newbury Schools in Ceauga County.

Mrs. Lauretta Redner, board president, said Dr. Moberly is "a good public relations man, besides being quite strong in curriculum, and should be able to quiet troubled waters."

Emotionally, he's a shambles. And it's no accident.

E53 is a product of selective breeding — a research project by three doctors who believe that genes, the carriers of inherited traits, are a big factor in mental stability, in man as well as dog.

"The first thing everyone asks is 'What have you done to those dogs?'" said Dr. O. D. Murphree, psychologist at Veterans Administration Hospital here. "All we have done is select the parents."

The study is a collaborative effort by Murphree and Drs. R. A. Dykman and J. E. Peters of the University of Arkansas Medical Center in Little Rock.

Together they have bred two separate strains of bird dogs: the "E line" — dogs like E53; and the "A line" — "normal" dogs that act like the family pet.

Both groups are treated alike. The finger is pointed at genes because environmental differences have been reduced to almost none.

The researchers believe their study has produced evidence to challenge the idea that environment is the major factor in mental instability.

"What we get in our study indicates that genes are the major factor," Murphree said.

For three generations under standardized conditions, healthy dogs have produced healthy offspring; the bizarre have yielded bizarre.

There is, of course, that variable: the 10 per cent who don't turn out quite like others in their line.

With financial support from a number of agencies, the research began in 1961 and the evidence started rolling in.

After a few months, the first generation "E line" dogs began to show emotional instability — fleeing from human approach, cringing at the most harmless gesture.

There is some evidence that the instability shows up at younger ages with each succeeding generation — a trend Murphree called the "self-limiting factor."

"It isn't uncommon to hear someone say that nervous disease appeared late in the life of a member of a family, then in the middle years of his offspring, and in the youth of the next generation," he said.

The factor is self-limiting because eventually one becomes so withdrawn that he produces no offspring.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Husband Resents 'Prying' Wife

DEAR ABBY: Over a year ago I married a man of means. We are both in our early fifties, and it is the second marriage for each. I gave up a good job, alimony from my previous marriage, and a lovely home of my own to marry him. A year passed and he never discussed his business matters with me. Nor did he mention any provisions he might have made for me in case of his death.

When I brought this up he became highly indignant and said such questions were prying and improper, and I had aroused his suspicions of my motives in marrying him.

Then he said before he took any action to provide me with the security I felt I was entitled to, I would have to "prove myself in the marriage." This has become a grave issue between us. What is our opinion?

INSECURE
DEAR INSECURE: This matter should have been discussed and resolved before you married him. He knows that it is his responsibility to provide for you in case of his death, but he probably resented your bringing it up. (A man of means is usually extremely sensitive about his money the second time around.)

Steer clear of the subject again. But if you really feel financially insecure, consult a lawyer and find out where you stand.

DEAR ABBY: Would you say it was proper to "neck" (or whatever you want to call it) with your ex-husband? And how about going beyond that point?

JUST ASKING
DEAR JUST: It is just as proper to "neck" (if that's what you mean, that's what I'll call it) with an ex-husband as it is to neck with any other single man. Past relationships confer no special privileges, however.

Night Circle Plans To Meet Tonight

The Night Circle of the WMU First Baptist Church will meet 7:30 p. m. tonight in the home of Mrs. Ruth Bryant, 1053 Mulberry Road.

DEAR ABBY: Everytime I read or hear a professional person condemning girls and women who wear curlers in their hair in public, I could scream. I think it's just fine that some women have the time and money to have their hair done in beauty parlors, but there are lots of us who don't.

I, for one am busy with housework and children during the day, and if I want my hair to look nice in the evening I have to put it up every day. That means I must chauffeur the children to and from school, do my shopping, walk the dog, and do all my outside errands with curlers in my hair. Frankly, Abby, I don't see that it is such a big crime. Thanks for listening I feel better already.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Husband Resents 'Prying' Wife

DEAR ABBY: Over a year ago I married a man of means. We are both in our early fifties, and it is the second marriage for each. I gave up a good job, alimony from my previous marriage, and a lovely home of my own to marry him. A year passed and he never discussed his business matters with me. Nor did he mention any provisions he might have made for me in case of his death.

When I brought this up he became highly indignant and said such questions were prying and improper, and I had aroused his suspicions of my motives in marrying him.

Then he said before he took any action to provide me with the security I felt I was entitled to, I would have to "prove myself in the marriage." This has become a grave issue between us. What is our opinion?

INSECURE

DEAR INSECURE: This matter should have been discussed and resolved before you married him. He knows that it is his responsibility to provide for you in case of his death, but he probably resented your bringing it up. (A man of means is usually extremely sensitive about his money the second time around.)

Steer clear of the subject again. But if you really feel financially insecure, consult a lawyer and find out where you stand.

DEAR ABBY: Would you say it was proper to "neck" (or whatever you want to call it) with your ex-husband? And how about going beyond that point?

JUST ASKING

DEAR JUST: It is just as proper to "neck" (if that's what you mean, that's what I'll call it) with an ex-husband as it is to neck with any other single man. Past relationships confer no special privileges, however.

Night Circle Plans To Meet Tonight

The Night Circle of the WMU First Baptist Church will meet 7:30 p. m. tonight in the home of Mrs. Ruth Bryant, 1053 Mulberry Road.

DEAR ABBY: Everytime I read or hear a professional person condemning girls and women who wear curlers in their hair in public, I could scream. I think it's just fine that some women have the time and money to have their hair done in beauty parlors, but there are lots of us who don't.

I, for one am busy with housework and children during the day, and if I want my hair to look nice in the evening I have to put it up every day. That means I must chauffeur the children to and from school, do my shopping, walk the dog, and do all my outside errands with curlers in my hair. Frankly, Abby, I don't see that it is such a big crime. Thanks for listening I feel better already.

Separated Siamese Twin Girls Are OK

GARDONE, Italy (AP) — Two 7-year-old girls who never talk about their past look forward happily to their future in an amazing new world of normal life.

They are Santina and Giuseppina Foglia, Siamese twin sisters born joined at the spine. They were separated in a five-hour operation May 10, 1965.

Since then they have learned to walk separately, even ride bicycles. Perhaps most remarkable of all they have learned to forget their six years in a Turin clinic. They refer to that part of their life simply as "prima" — before.

"They are extraordinarily vital and lively. There is no visible difference to be noticed when they play with their schoolmates," says Maria Tumminelli. She is owner and director of the Tumminelli Boarding School in this La Garda resort where the twins now stay.

After their operation by a team of 15 specialists headed by Prof. Luigi Sotgiu the two girls were kept under close medical observation during months of physical and psychological readjustment. They had to re-educate their limbs and acquire a new sense of balance.

They still perform corrective calisthenics at the school here. After the period of readjustment at the clinic the two girls settled in the house of their parents at Grazzano Badoglio.

Liquor Ration For GIs Is Cut in Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The liquor ration for American military and civilian personnel in Viet Nam has been cut by more than one-half.

Effective last month, the amount of alcoholic beverages which may be bought in package retail outlets was reduced from six fifths per man per month, with no limit on wines, to three fifths per man including wine.

The Pentagon said the cut-back, ordered by the command in Viet Nam, is intended to curb black market sales and "further reduce pressures on logistical and security systems."

A spokesman supplied figures which showed that with more men in Viet Nam, consumption of alcoholic beverages has increased sharply.

Last year American military men and civilians in the Southeast Asian country consumed 460,706 cases of liquor and wine. By comparison, sales the first five months almost match the 1965 total — 409,585 cases sold from last January through May.

First Family's Beagle Named 'Him' Is Killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's friendly, frisky beagle "Him" is dead.

"Him" had spent a good bit of his three years chasing the squirrels that inhabit the White House grounds. And that's the way he lost his life.

Johnson's daughter, Lynda, burst into a meeting the President was having with some congressmen Wednesday night to tell him about another tragedy in the dog part of the family. "Him" had darted between the front and rear wheels of a White House car on the driveway out back while yapping after a squirrel and was struck and killed.

Johnson told associates "It's a sad night tonight at the White House."

"Him" had the No. 1 dog tag in the capital and was registered as the pet of the Johnsons' younger daughter, Luci. But he really was the President's dog.

Every morning Johnson clapped his hands and brought "Him" running to his side. "Him" was always around at lunch time and always managed to coax a morsel or two from the presidential plate. And sometimes at night he slept on the presidential bed.

Mrs. Johnson was in Lincoln, Neb., on a beautification trip and was notified of the beagle's death by a Secret Service agent.

"That makes you feel like you have been bit in the stomach by a hard rock," she said.

Despite a well-publicized incident when Johnson pulled "Him's" ears with resultant howls from the pup and even louder ones from dog lovers, there was a real, unmistakable affection between the two.

"Him's" death was the second canine tragedy at the White House since the Johnsons have been there. "Him's" sister, "Her," died on Nov. 27, 1964, on an operating table after having swallowed a rock she picked up on the White House lawn.

The White House collie, Blanco, still is around although he never has been a top favorite. And two of "Him's" six puppies are there, too. "Kim" and "Freckles" are about eight months old. Their mother was a Texas beagle.

"Him" will be cremated and buried on the LBJ Ranch — if the President follows the precedent set with "Her."

This seemed to show up quickly when the extremist Buddhists, rating some success, wanted more fast: they wanted Ky out in a hurry.

They apparently did not have the masses of Viet Nam behind them. The uprisings they engineered in the cities of Saigon Hue and Da Nang had to be urged and pushed.

One monk above all others, Tri Quang, was Ky's enemy. No concession seemed enough for him. The story behind this monk is not fully known and perhaps never will be.

In a last desperate effort to arouse the country — or was it a plea for pity? — Tri Quang went on a hunger strike.

But there was more to Ky's tactics than just making a big concession. When the extremist Buddhists in Da Nang rioted, Ky sent in troops to crush them and then, at the last moment, pulled back.

The reason seems clear enough: He wasn't yet sure that most of the country would stand for it. He waited until, apparently, he felt sure. Then he turned the troops loose in Da Nang. No more trouble there.

But in Hue and Saigon the Buddhists who still listened to leaders like Tri Quang, rioted. Bit by bit but slowly Ky shattered them. Even the self-burnings by several of Tri Quang's monks and nuns didn't arouse the nation against Ky.

As this is written the extremist effort seems crushed. But how Ky decided on his tactics and his timing will be a fascinating story, if it ever comes out.

That he now feels self-confident was clear enough Wednesday when his military government said it would stay in power until 1967, permitting only a step by step march to civilian government.

Reagan Gives Rundown on His Beliefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan said today he is "a throwback to the age of unhyphenated Republicanism" and will focus on "nagging problems" such as taxes, crime, labor and education in his race for the California governorship.

He said he fully expects Californians of both parties to swing the state into the GOP ranks in November.

In a speech prepared for a National Press Club luncheon, Reagan gave what he described as "an unfiltered, uncensored version of where I stand and what I think the issues are in the fall election."

The 55-year-old Hollywood star, who won the Republican nomination for governor of California June 7, faces Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown in November.

Reagan flew East Wednesday to lunch with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm and later meet here with the California GOP House delegation and Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.

Eisenhower told newsmen after the two had lunched that Reagan "seems to have integrity and common sense, and he's for Republicans."

Asked if Reagan's visit meant an endorsement as a potential presidential candidate, Eisenhower said:

"Any candidate elected governor of any big state would have to be considered by he party" as a presidential possibility.

Airport . . .

vide a main runway 4,200 feet long and 75 feet wide.

THE LARGER federal-state proposal would provide a main runway 5,000 feet in length and 150 feet in width. In addition, there would be taxiways and a paved apron.

An effort was made by Brown to sell the Pickaway officials on joining Ross County in improving a small dirt airstrip known as the Flying M Ranch and owned by Robert Murdock. It is located west of Ohio Highway 104 on a high plateau and is about 15 road miles from Circleville.

Commissioner Melvin voiced a strong "no" to this proposal. He said Flying M would be of little benefit to the Circleville area.

Brown and Meeker indicated that should the joint airport plan be abandoned, Ross County would go ahead with its own individual airport, probably at the Flying M site.

Melvin said he doubted Pickaway would go ahead with an airport program alone. Morris declared, however, that he would "fight for our own airport if that is the only answer."

Brown said he was firmly against construction of a "$1 million airport which we don't need and couldn't keep up."

THIS was in reference to one plan presented to the commissioners in which local, state and federal funds would be utilized to build an airport capable of handling large executive jet aircraft.

As to cost of maintenance and construction, Morris contended that "it would cost you a lot more not to have an airport than to have one."

At one point, Brown questioned Immler as to the attitude of Chillicothe's largest industry, the Mead Paper Corp., regarding a joint airport.

Immler replied that a Chillicothe Mead spokesman made no commitment regarding the matter.

In other viewpoints, the Ross commissioners wondered about the value of a Pickaway Twp. petition opposing construction of the proposed joint airport.

Said Melvin: "It doesn't worry me."

Said Hines: "I'll bet that half of the people who signed that petition would sign another favoring the airport."

Hospital Board Okays Medicare Participation

Approval of an agreement denoting participation in the federal medicare program was one of the key items acted on Wednesday night by Berger Hospital's Board of Governors.

Berger already has been approved by the government to take part in medicare. The board okayed the contract on a 3-2 vote, with three members absent.

Casting negative votes were Dr. E. L. Montgomery and Dr. Robert N. Phillips. Approving were Emmitt Crist, Henry J. Schroeder and Howard Koch. Members Russell Palm, Harry Clifton Jr. and Dr. F. W. Anderson were absent.

Administrator Charles B. Beard sounded an encouraging note when he reported that the hospital's operating fund at the end of last month's business was the largest ever at Berger. The amount was listed at $59,993.99.

BEARD also expressed satisfaction with what he termed an excellent collection for May. He attributed part of this financial improvement to a patient occupancy average that is now running about 82 per cent.

Although pleased with this gain, Beard explained that an occupancy of at least 85 per cent is ideal. He said he hopes the desired figure will be reached and passed in the near future.

Another priority discussion item centered on the need for space at Berger, especially at the main entrance area. Beard, in asking the board to consider this problem, noted that "cramped" conditions exist in the x-ray, administrative, reception room, switchboard and Guild Gift Shop vicinity.

Board members, after considerable deliberation, authorized Beard to proceed with initial program plans. He was granted permission to do the same with a project calling for improvements at the hospital's parking lot.

The board recommended the Dan Carmichael architecture firm of Columbus be contacted concerning preparation of the improvement plans.

Along the same progress lines, the Berger administrator asked the governing board's advice on hiring an employee to handle and keep medical records current. He considers this phase of hospital administration one of the key steps in obtaining national accreditation.

A decision on the matter is expected shortly.

IN OTHER business, board members authorized preparation of a plant ledger. This will include an inventory of the building and all facilities.

The board's initial act for the evening was to welcome Mrs. Donald Hill, new president of the Hospital General Guild. She succeeds Mrs. Doris Wiggins.

Final business centered on acquiring a fan for the enclosed Guild Gift Shop in the hospital lobby. The matter was quickly solved when Dr. Phillips said he would donate a three-speed unit.

THIS was in reference to one plan presented to the commissioners in which local, state and federal funds would be utilized to build an airport capable of handling large executive jet aircraft.

As to cost of maintenance and construction, Morris contended that "it would cost you a lot more not to have an airport than to have one." It was his point that an adequate airport would bring enough additional industries (and the resultant tax revenues) to warrant such a venture.

At one point, Brown questioned Imnell as to the attitude of Chillicothe's largest industry, the Mead Paper Corp., regarding a joint airport. Imnell replied that a Chillicothe Mead spokesman made no commitment regarding the matter.

In other viewpoints, the Ross commissioners wondered about the value of a Pickaway Twp. petition opposing construction of the proposed joint airport.

Said Melvin: "It doesn't worry me."

Said Hines: "I'll bet that half of the people who signed that petition would sign another favoring the airport."

'Lightning Joe' Gets High Praise in Belgium

Collins was in command of the U. S. Army 7th Corps when Dinant was threatened by the Battle of the Bulge. He was officially welcomed Tuesday by Maurice Roulin, burgomaster of Dinant.

First Family's Beagle Named 'Him' Is Killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's friendly, frisky beagle "Him" is dead.

"Him" had spent a good bit of his three years chasing the squirrels that inhabit the White House grounds. And that's the way he lost his life.

Johnson's daughter, Lynda, burst into a meeting the President was having with some congressmen Wednesday night to tell him about another tragedy in the dog part of the family. "Him" had darted between the front and rear wheels of a White House car on the driveway out back while yapping after a squirrel and was struck and killed.

Johnson told associates "It's a sad night tonight at the White House."

"Him" had the No. 1 dog tag in the capital and was registered as the pet of the Johnsons' younger daughter, Luci. But he really was the President's dog.

Every morning Johnson clapped his hands and brought "Him" running to his side. "Him" was always around at lunch time and always managed to coax a morsel or two from the presidential plate. And sometimes at night he slept on the presidential bed.

Mrs. Johnson was in Lincoln, Neb., on a beautiful trip and was notified of the beagle's death by a Secret Service agent.

"That makes you feel like you have been hit in the stomach by a hard rock," she said.

Despite a well-publicized incident when Johnson pulled "Him's" ears with resultant howls from the pup and even louder ones from dog lovers, there was a real, unmistakable affection between the two.

"Him's" death was the second canine tragedy at the White House since the Johnsons have been there. "Him's" sister, "Her," died on Nov. 27, 1964, on an operating table after having swallowed a rock she picked up on the White House lawn.

The White House collie, Blanco, still is around although he never has been a top favorite. And two of "Him's" six puppies are there, too. "Kim" and "Freckles" are about eight months old. Their mother was a Texas beagle.

"Him" will be cremated and buried on the LBJ Ranch — if the President follows the precedent set with "Her."

Pair Likes Taking Over Entire Town

CURRIE, Nev. (AP) — Even for Nevada, Currie is isolated. And that's just what Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Krueger of Menlo Park, Calif. wanted when they moved here one year ago this week.

They fled suburban living to take over virtually the entire town of Currie, population 38, amid the sagebrush and jackrabbits of northeast Nevada.

So, how is it to turn from orderly urban life in the San Francisco Bay area to a harsh, lonely spot 50 miles from the nearest town?

"We're doing fine," said Jeannette Krueger in an interview over the nearest telephone, at a gas station 16 miles away. "My husband loves it. It's entirely different from living in a city, believe me."

They put much of their life savings into a lease, with option to buy, the town's businesses — a general store, bar, service station and three little cabins the Kruegers rent primarily to deer hunters.

"It's a rough life," Mrs. Krueger continued. "It's been hard. But we're very pleased."

Will they stick it out? "We're still here!" Mrs. Krueger says, adding they hope to exercise the option and buy the businesses.

Hospital Board Okays Medicare Participation

Approval of an agreement denoting participation in the federal medicare program was one of the key items acted on Wednesday night by Berger Hospital's Board of Governors.

Berger already has been approved by the government to take part in medicare. The board okayed the contract on a 3-2 vote, with three members absent.

Casting negative votes were Dr. E. L. Montgomery and Dr. Robert N. Phillips. Approving were Emmitt Crist, Henry J. Schroeder and Howard Koch. Members Russell Palm, Harry Clifton Jr. and Dr. F. W. Anderson were absent.

Administrator Charles B. Beard sounded an encouraging note when he reported that the hospital's operating fund at the end of last month's business was the largest ever at Berger. The amount was listed at $59,993.99.

BEARD also expressed satisfaction with what he termed an excellent collection for May. He attributed part of this financial improvement to a patient occupancy average that is now running about 82 per cent.

Although pleased with this gain, Beard explained that an occupancy of at least 85 per cent is ideal. He said he hopes the desired figure will be reached and passed in the near future.

Another priority discussion item centered on the need for space at Berger, especially at the main entrance area. Beard, in asking the board to consider this problem, noted that "cramped" conditions exist in the x-ray, administrative, reception room, switchboard and Guild Gift Shop vicinity.

Board members, after considerable deliberation, authorized Beard to proceed with initial program plans. He was granted permission to do the same with a project calling for improvements at the hospital's parking lot.

The board recommended the Dan Carmichael architecture firm of Columbus be contacted concerning preparation of the improvement plans.

Along the same progress lines, the Berger administrator asked the governing board's advice on hiring an employee to handle and keep medical records current. He considers this phase of hospital administration one of the key steps in obtaining national accreditation.

A decision on the matter is expected shortly.

IN OTHER business, board members authorized preparation of a plant ledger. This will include an inventory of the building and all facilities.

The board's initial act for the evening was to welcome Mrs. Donald Hill, new president of the Hospital General Guild. She succeeds Mrs. Doris Wiggins.

Final business centered on acquiring a fan for the enclosed Guild Gift Shop in the hospital lobby. The matter was quickly solved when Dr. Phillips said he would donate a three-speed unit.

Fredric March Is Tired, Says It's Time To Quit

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I think it's time to hang up my hat," said Fredric March, chewing on the tag end of a cigar.

The two-time Academy winner — "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," 1932; "The Best Years of Our Lives," 1946 — was sitting next to the entrance of the stage where "Hombre" was being filmed. He had just finished a scene with Paul Newman and Martin Balsam and was waiting for the next one.

"What am I doing here?" he ruminated. "I've got four grandchildren coming from their home in Italy to our house in Connecticut; my daughter is married to an Italian-American who lives in Florence. My son is getting married this summer."

"Here I am making a picture, feeling as tired as I have ever been, when I should be in the East with my family. It doesn't make sense."

March had just returned from a gruelling 13 weeks in the Arizona and Nevada deserts and mountains. It was no ordinary location; one company worker, a veteran of Western films, reported he has never experienced a tougher trip for a movie.

The weather was murderous," reported March, "so hot that you couldn't sleep at night. In one location, it was 53 miles over mountain roads to reach the shooting at the top of the peak. The place was on a ledge with a road so narrow that a Jeep would have to back down it to descend."

The actor said that he survived the location only through the aid and support of his wife and often costar, Florence Elbridge. During their stay in Las Vegas they celebrated their 39th wedding anniversary.

Despite her ministrations, March came to the conclusion that he should end his long, distinguished career.

"Look — I'm 68; I'll be 69 in August," he remarked. "I think I've done my stint. Now I aim to do the things I like to do: spend some time with my family, and travel.

"Fortunately, I'm in a position where I don't have to work. I made money in the years when you could still keep it. And having been a banker, I took good care of what I earned."

Actress Is Glad Her First Kiss Is 'Over'

ROME (AP) — Raquel Welch, kissless in her first two big movies, is now in Rome making her third — and actor Robert Wagner got the job of kissing her at length before the cameras.

Said Wagner later: "Kissing a sex goddess is like kissing a woman — only more so."

Said Raquel: "I'm glad that's over. Now I can concentrate on my dialogue."

Farm Work, Flower Garden Combined at Hedges Home

If you ask Mrs. C. W. Hedges of Route 2, Ashville, how long she has been gardening she will tell you, "All my life! I was brought up in a flower garden."

She was indeed brought up in a flower garden. For she is the daughter of Mrs. John Koch, one of Pickaway County's veteran growers.

The C. W. Hedges have a spacious front lawn with a horse-shoe drive which curves around in front of the house. Within the rounded end of the drive the peonies were blooming at the time of my visit.

And what peonies! Many were Japanese singles which had been purchased at Van Wert during one of the peony festivals Roberta Hedges attended.

There were several fully double peonies in pinks and reds. In fact Roberta Hedges' favorite is a shell pink double.

STROLLING with Mrs. Hedges through the beautifully planned and planted grounds, one soon realizes that here is a gardener with an almost instinctive feel for the needs of her plants.

She says for instance that the peonies get a heavy feeding of bonemeal in February. Most flower gardeners are keeping warm in February with little or no thought of their outdoor flowers.

In a shady spot we were surprised to see shrimp plant and hardy gloxinias. Mrs. Hedges explained — "Lots of flowers like shade."

A stone retaining wall about 18 inches high surrounds the house so that Mrs. Hedges can have an encircling flower bed. There are plants in this bed that will provide bloom at all times of the year. Blooming here when I visited were Iceland poppies, coral bells, painted daisy and a magenta spiderwort.

"I also had a blue spiderwort," said Mrs. Hedges, "but it winked out on me."

Earlier there had been Virginia Bluebells and spring bulbs of all sorts in the flower bed around the house.

MAKE NO mistake, the C. W. Hedges place is a productive farm, teeming with agricultural activity and not just a flower garden. There is the laying house with almost 500 hens and there are the sheep, 150 of them in a field not visible from the house.

While C. W. Hedges was mowing hay last week, Roberta was cultivating corn. When we asked Roberta how she kept up with everything she admitted that her social life had to suffer on occasion, but not too badly. She was going to deliver eggs and play bridge the afternoon of my visit.

The Hedges have managed two outdoor sitting-rooms with tables and chairs for relaxing and enjoying life in the open. One is east of the house and the other in the back.

The collection of beautiful trees, shrubs and plants to be found at the Hedges home is fantastic. A Chinese elm, a big one, provides shade for the outdoor livingroom in back. A triple-trunk birch gives shade to the east.

To the west is a thriving mulberry. Chauncey Hedges, who loves mulberry pie, will have to wait without this year because Jack Frost got the mulberries. A sweet gum will in time provide autumn color in abundance at the front.

Blooming at the time of my visit I saw shrub roses, pink, yellow and red, bright blue anemones, gaillardia, pink and white dianthus, French anemones, lemon lilies, robinia (pink locust), oriental poppies, columbine, salmon penstemon, pink weigela, mock orange and iris — Japanese, spuria and bearded. There were blue star of Texas, blue thistles and violas all over the place.

VINES? There are purple and white passion vine, red honey suckle, climbing roses, hardy sweet pea, wisteria and clematis.

Annuals? Of course! In one bed asters and flowering kale had been transplanted. Many annuals were tucked away in places left bare by spring bulbs.

Mrs. Hedges is an ardent member of the Dahlia Society. She has about 12 planted near the house and on the other farm where the soil is sandy she has a truly big planting. Roberta says dahlias love a sandy soil.

In her shady garden between the house and summer kitchen she has ferns, jack-in-the-pulpit, wild strawberries, violets, August lilies and a night blooming cereus.

Vegetables? There is a glorious vegetable garden with purple cabbage, sweetpeas, peppers, lettuce, beets, onions and tomatoes.

When the May 10 freeze came Mr. and Mrs. Hedges looked at their excellent garden and remembered the hard work. So Roberta just threatened the garden. She said: "If things

PEONY FANCIER — Mrs. C. W. Hedges, Solaqua Garden Club member, looks over some of her fine Japanese singles which grow in the curve of their horseshoe drive. Mrs. Hedges, an arranger of experience, can scarcely be said to specialize in peonies because she grows and arranges so many other different kinds of flowers. There were literally hundreds of different plants blooming in her garden last week. When exhibiting in a flower show she thinks nothing of entering every class.

OUTDOOR LIVINGROOM — The C. W. Hedges of Route 2, Ashville, truly enjoy their garden and the backdrop of pleasant rural Ohio landscape surrounding their home. They have outdoor furniture where they can relax with their visitors or partake of outdoor meals. Mrs. Hedges is seen taking it easy in one such livingroom which is in the back of their house. With her is Tinker, a registered hunting dog that knows better than to scratch in the garden or bury bones among the flowers.

freeze tonight I am through. This patch goes into bluegrass. I am not going to work for nothing."

IN THE meantime they covered their tomatoes with coffee cans. The plants must have been listening because nothing froze. The peas are a trifle disappointing but at that a very fine crop.

The Hedges' have two hunting dogs. They have cats. They have a mother hen with a dozen ducklings. They have the 500 chickens. The creatures know their places and stay away from Roberta's flowers. That is all except the sheep that will insist on eating anything and everything that is growing on the fences. So Roberta's vines just stay away from the fences.

Some Trees Delay Blooming Until Mid-Summer Period

There are a few trees that hold off blooming until mid-summer. They are interesting types and not difficult to grow if we are to believe the catalogs.

Take the golden rain tree (Koelreuteria). It blooms in July and August and attains an ultimate height of some 25 feet.

Blooms are not spectacular but interesting. Cascades of golden yellow clusters cover the tree. The blooms are a little bit like those of the horse chestnut.

There is the pagoda tree (Sophora japonica). This is medium sized, reaching 25 feet at maturity. It has pale yellow pea like blooms in August. Gardeners also like the bright green bark and feathery foliage.

THE JAPANESE tree lilac is a small tree — 16 to 20 feet. In late June and into July it has creamy white blooms in lilac like clusters. To the layman, however, it bears no resemblance to our well known lilac. Foliage is deep green and thick.

Oxydendron, sometimes known as the lily-of-the-valley tree, blooms in late summer. In fall the foliage is said to be flaming red and it is this Commercial Point's Mrs. Florence Haugb is president of the Pickaway Council of Garden Clubs.

Last Sunday was a red letter day for the Slatcreek Town and Country Club. The first organized picnic was scheduled at the Chilcote Memorial Park on Route 56. On this date this club and the Chilcote family made the park a possibility by working together. The Chilcote family donated the land. The club is planting it. A well was drilled. The park will provide a pleasant stopping place for travelers along the highway.

Mrs. Gene Hoover, Route 2, has such an energetic philodendron vine that it had grown off the table and was reaching the floor. Just had to have a good clipping.

Mrs. Ed Fetherolf of Stringtown had more than 20 blooms on her rhododendron. She gives it no extra chemicals to provide the acid such plants need in Pickaway County.

We wonder if the Fetherolf place isn't near enough to Hocking County to have Hocking County soil. After all mountain laurel thrives in Hocking County.

Just might be that Laurelville people could raise azaleas and rhododendron without too much trouble!

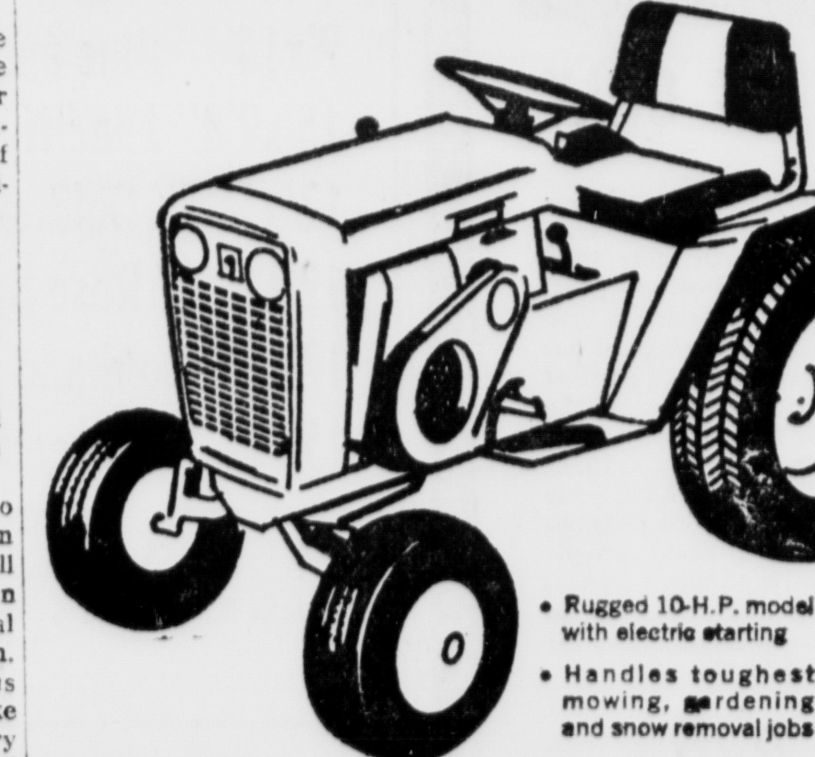

Mrs. Clyde Hoover's garden is especially beautiful now. Mrs. Hoover, who lives on Route 23 where Little Walnut Pike angles off, had a collection of perennials that is most extensive. Several years ago she told me she raised many of her perennials from seed.

Everything is bouncing back to normal now. It's almost as though there had been no killing freeze May 10. Everything, that is, but the big sycamores. They are still practically leafless.

Daisy Brintlinger is an interested and successful vegetable gardener. She loves to work in the garden and evidently loves to share with the neighbors. She lives at Route 4, Circleville.

Mrs. Gene Crawford, of Kingston, who addressed the Pickaway County Garden Club Tuesday, ordinarily has a yard brimming with flowers at this time of year. But just because she is giving a demonstration and needs flowers, her galliards are the only

Peony Show At Kingwood June 18, 19

The 61st annual exhibition of the American Peony Society will be held at Kingwood Center in Mansfield on June 18 and 19.

This national show is an outstanding attraction in the Kingwood schedule for 1966. Specimens of the finest peonies available will be entered in the competition. It affords the home and amateur gardener an excellent opportunity to see truly fine peonies.

All gardeners are invited by the American Peony Society to enter the show. Closing time for entries is 11 a. m. EST June 18. Show schedules are available from Kingwood Center. The show will be open to the public June 18 from 2 to 9 p. m. EST and June 19, from 9 a. m. till 8 p. m. The show is being held in the Kingwood Center exhibit hall.

The variety of classes in the horticultural division is quite extensive. It includes opportunities to exhibit individual specimens and collections of all types of garden peonies. Awards of national stature being offered for winners in the show include the James Boyd Memorial Medal donated by the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, the B. F. Farr Memorial Medal and the Charles F. Wassenburg Trophy.

THE THEME for this year's arrangement section is "Peonies for Permanence." It points up one of the outstanding qualities of the peony, that of permanence.

Peonies used in the arrangement division do not need to be grown by the exhibitor. The seven arrangement classes permit many interesting interpretations using peonies.

The cold spring weather, including the 18 degree temperatures in the Mansfield area, have caused postponement of the Kingwood Rose Society annual show. It now will be held in conjunction with the Mansfield Men's Garden Club Fall Harvest Show, Sept. 10 and 11.

things that were blooming.

Husbands have rough going when their wives are going to give flower arrangement demonstrations. At the Crawford household, Gene wandered into the livingroom and knocked Frances's new Japanese container to the floor. Yep! It broke! She had never used it.

Mrs. Elsie Chester, Collins Court, planted her petunias early this year. The frost did not hurt them one bit, she reports.

Mrs. Chester says the rabbits are chewing the new growth on her roses. She tries to scare them away but she does not have much luck.

Mrs. Chester halfway believes that the rabbits like her yard because the food from the bird feeders gets scratched onto the lawn. She believes the rabbits enjoy the cracked corn.

Florence Fetherolf had a pure white amaryllis in bloom when I visited her Friday. This plant is spectacular when in bloom. She also has a red amaryllis as a companion plant. It is in bud now. Mrs. Fetherolf purchased the bulbs at bargain prices from a nursery. She says she watches for such bargains.

Frankie Stump on Route 56 has deep red Oriental poppies growing along his vegetable garden fence.

Reports are coming in about the Collis Young garden, 311 E. Main St. It's said to be both beautiful and colorful.

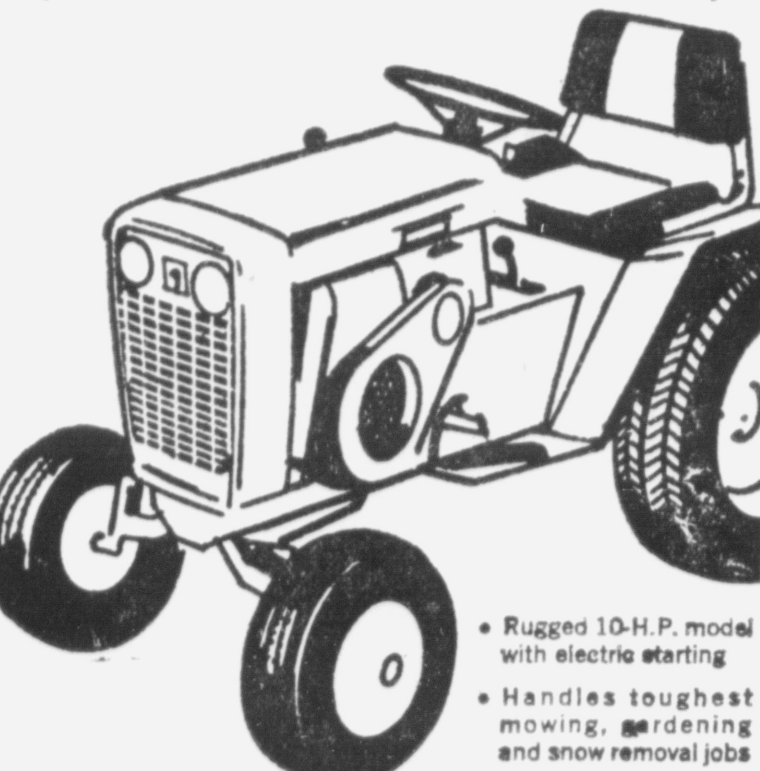

Mrs. George Minshall, Route 1, Kingston, brought home a yellow rose start from George's home place. This year it bloomed. "And what do you think?" The Minshall's son, Billy said, "The yellow rose had pink roses on it!"

The Woman's Society of Christian Service, First Methodist Church, held a luncheon recently. I understand. The decorations committee were hard put to it. No garden flowers available Mrs. Walter Heine came to the rescue. She brought pink and white clover from a neighboring field for table decorations. The results were most satisfactory. The clover was admired by everybody and in fact did look lovely.

house of redwood. Four ladies in leg-o-mutton sleeves and high necked dresses are having tea. The caption read, "An outdoor livingroom. More and more we shall live in the open air." We considered this somewhat prophetic in view of the fact that we are even cooking meals outdoors now.

One amusing story in an essay on the "Partnership between Nature and Art" dealt with John Ruskin at an exhibition at the Royal Academy. A self complacent woman said to him, "I don't know good art but I know what I like."

Ruskin's withering reply was: "Madam, even the beasts of the field know that."

Most valuable are the lists of trees, shrubs, perennial plants and annuals that the author has incorporated. These lists read like an up-to-date nursery catalog.

Rosarians would be interested in her rose list. Roses have come a long way since 1909.

Read this book. It is full of valuable information.

Romney, Rhodes To Top Cincy Parley

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two Republicans likely to figure prominently in national politics the next presidential year will tune up for the National Governors Conference at a midwestern convention opening here Sunday.

They are Michigan Gov. George Romney and Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes, both mentioned in national speculation with increasing frequency along with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Governors of 13 midwestern states — five Republicans and eight Democrats — are to talk shop and politics through Wednesday in a preview of the national meeting July 4 in Los Angeles.

Both Rhodes and Romney can be counted on to do some talking besides that on the regular program. Some will be in private, but both have indicated they will hold news conferences, which might touch on national politics.

Rhodes, regional vice chairman and host governor, will get extra political exposure when he goes to Cleveland next Thursday to address a four-day National Conference of Lieutenant Governors.

Romney may monopolize the political spotlight in Cincinnati because of Rhodes' continued expression of disinterest in the national scene. But reelection of the two governors by substantial margins this year could keep both on tap as GOP presidential or vice presidential prospects.

Romney, self-styled moderate who missed out in the Republican scramble at the 1964 Governors Conference in Cleveland, got a big boost when Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller recently said they have no further presidential aspirations.

Scranton and Rockefeller were active in 1964 opposition to conservative Barry Goldwater, who won the GOP presidential nomination in 1964.

Rhodes, who gave Goldwater minimum party support in the 1964 campaign, has been described recently by Goldwater as a "sleeper" on whom the national political stars could fall.

Marine's 'Flag Day' Message Is Released

DETROIT (AP) — An American flag on a makeshift pole in Viet Nam "was the most beautiful piece of cloth I have ever seen," says Marine Lance Cpl. Dennis Fritz.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fritz of Detroit, released on Flag Day a letter from Dennis, in which he described the flag-raising and added:

"I don't like being here or fighting, but I will always be here, or there will always be someone like me here. Where is here?"

"Here is not Viet Nam, but wherever the right for us to fly our flag is questioned."

Fortunately for the NBC camera team, a couple of the Guatemala guerrillas had a rudimentary knowledge of English and, what was more, a keen working knowledge of the uses of propaganda. Otherwise they would never have welcomed the television team to shoot pictures of them. They emerged, all of them, looking rather like romantic Robin Hoods.

The program made a great point that the most fertile ground for the outbreak of such warfare is in countries with a peasant class that is largely illiterate and held in something like feudal bondage, dominated by rich landowners supported by government military forces.

Similar guerrilla warfare exists in neighboring countries of Peru and Colombia, both of which were touched upon lightly in the program.

Ohio Education Master Plan Due To Be Detailed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Master Plan for Higher Education has been changed to include "a few new concepts" but its major provisions are the same as outlined more than a year ago.

The State Board of Regents will release the plan Friday.

James M. Furman, executive officer of the board, said the final plan has "the same foundation" as the provisional plan put out by the board in April 1965.

"But there are a few new concepts," he said of the plan which probably will chart the state's course in higher education through the next 15 years.

Furman said one new recommendation will be for a "tuition equalization" program for all students, public or non-public based on a student's need.

He said the plan is designed to make a college education more readily available to all students regardless of economic status, and that he believed there would be no legal questions in giving state aid "directly to the student." Such aid to an institution for this purpose might well be challenged, he said.

Furman said other changes since the provisional plan include revisions in figures for state financial support and in enrollment limitations at state supported institutions. Details will not be released until Friday, Furman said.

Basically, the plan will call for college facilities within 30 miles of every high school graduate in the state. It envisions an enrollment increase in all colleges from about 266,000 last year to 650,000 by the year 1980.

Enrollments of public institutions are expected to grow from 168,000 to 450,000 and those of private institutions from 98,000 to 200,000.

A vital part of the plan is the establishment of branch campuses in every section of the state to provide the first two years of a student's college education. Main campuses will concentrate on providing junior and senior classes and post-graduate courses.

State university branch campuses are planned or being built in cities where part-time evening programs have been operated in the past. Sixteen permanent branch campuses are planned.

Community colleges are planned in areas where existing services are not adequate and where there is local support for them. These are planned in Cuyahoga, Lorain, Montgomery and Mahoning counties.

Ohio Water Pollution Criteria Set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio has taken the first step in a program to set quality standards for all waters that flow to or from neighboring states.

The State Water Pollution Control Board approved Tuesday the criteria for the standards which follow generally the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission.

Public hearings will be held before specific standards are set for each of the nine interstate streams affected. First hearing will involve the Mahoning River in Youngstown July 26.

Others will be held later on on Lake Erie, the Maumee, St. Mary's, Wabash, St. Joseph, and Miami rivers and the Yankee and Little Beaver creeks.

Standards will vary "as circumstances dictate," the board said in a resolution.

Criteria outlined in the resolution call for "all waters at all times" to meet certain standards. They must be free of objectionable sludge deposits, floating materials, discharges causing color or odor, or toxic matter endangering human, animal, or aquatic life.

The resolution also recommended designation of all sections of streams into four categories which were defined as public water supply, recreation, aquatic life, and industrial water supply.

CURTAIN OF ROSES — In Russia there's an Iron Curtain. But in Circleville it's a Rose Curtain — American Beauty Climbing rose that is. This rose blooms each year at the Ervin L. Kocher place, 206 S. Pickaway. Mr. Kocher is showing this floral curtain to Miss Helen Dunkel of 114 S. Washington St. This is such a magnificent sight when it blooms that many a passerby stops for a second long look.

PICKAWAY COUNTY RHODODENDRON — Mrs. Tom Wagner, 410 Sunnyview Drive, is pleased and justifiably so, that her rhododendron had more than 10 blooms this spring. It is planted on the north side of her home and she gives it regular feedings of acid fertilizer recommended by the experts. Azaleas in this locality require the same treatment.

NEW YORK (AP) — Food stores across the nation are featuring meat cuts for outdoor cooking. But just what ends up on the grill may depend on where you are.

In the Midwest, increased supplies of cattle have cut beef prices — and hamburger, steaks and roasts are featured for the weekend.

But on the West Coast, beef and pork prices may be somewhat higher in most markets.

In the South-east, some chain stores are featuring fryer parts. In the Northeast, the emphasis is on lamb — stew, chops and legs — along with beef.

Many traditional summer vegetables and fruits still are somewhat high, with sketchy supplies because of bad weather. But generally there are plenty of cantaloupes and green beans.

19 Air Conditioners Are Stolen from Firm

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — There are some persons loose in town this summer with larceny in their hearts and comfort — and money — on their minds.

Officials of an air-conditioning company told police thieves took 19 air conditioners valued at $2,600 from their place of business.

Two voter approved bond issues will finance most of the expansion costs. In 1963, a $25 million bond issue was approved and $175 million of it earmarked for higher education. In 1965, $290 million was voted and $145 million went to higher education for a total of $340 million.

The Board of Regents recently issued a statement outlining goals of the master plan creating the vast network of educational institutions.

It said, in part: "For the first time in history a truly comprehensive plan has been developed for public higher education and across a broad front of activity the state is advancing toward the satisfaction of these vital needs."

Romney, Rhodes To Top Cincy Parley

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two Republicans likely to figure prominently in national politics the next presidential year will tune up for the National Governors Conference at a midwestern convention opening here Sunday.

They are Michigan Gov. George Romney and Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes, both mentioned in national speculation with increasing frequency along with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Governors of 13 midwestern states — five Republicans and eight Democrats — are to talk shop and politics through Wednesday in a preview of the national meeting July 4 in Los Angeles.

Both Rhodes and Romney can be counted on to do some talking besides that on the regular program. Some will be in private, but both have indicated they will hold news conferences, which might touch on national politics.

Ohio Education Master Plan Due To Be Detailed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Master Plan for Higher Education has been changed to include "a few new concepts" out its major provisions are the same as outlined more than a year ago.

The State Board of Regents will release the plan Friday.

SEOGA Golfers Converge On Pickaway Country Club

Nearly 150 golfers from nine country clubs will converge on the Pickaway Country Club this weekend for the 40th annual Southeastern Ohio Golf Assn. tournament.

The tournament is the highlight of the year for the SEOGA member units. Country clubs in the organization include Pickaway, Athens, Cambridge, Chillicothe, Fairgreens at Jackson, Gallipolis, Hocking Hills at Logan, Lancaster and Marietta.

Marietta is the defending team champion. The squad from the Ohio River city carded a score of 900, 22 strokes better than Athens, the second place team. Gallipolis was third and Pickaway Country Club fourth.

Marietta has won the event the last three years, and has either won or tied for first in eight of the last nine years.

THE RIVER city team is favored to win again this year with Athens and Pickaway tabbed as strong contenders.

Members of the Pickaway team are:

Bob McFadden, club champion; Steve Helwagen (147), Tim Dickinson (151), George Fuhrman (154), Bill Heiskell (155), Brent Bell (156), Bud Hritz (157), Maynard Eaton (158), Steve Brudzinski (159), Dean McFadden (162).

BOB LITTLER JR. was medalist in the 1965 tournament.

With the London Queen's club tournament half over, four of those eight Wimbledon seeds have been eliminated from the men's singles. Australians Fred Stolle and John Newcombe, South Africa's Cliff Drysdale and U.S. Davis Cup star Clark Graebner of Beachwood, Ohio.

Minor Loop Leaders Win

The two top teams in the Little League Minors remained even Wednesday night as they won their respective games.

Nicklaus Is Not Unhappy To Be Favorite in Open

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Long hitting Jack Nicklaus, already the 1966 Masters champion, is the favorite in the $150,000 National Open Golf Tournament which started today, and it was fine with him.

While some others complained about conditions at the precise Olympic Club course, the 26-year-old from Columbus, Ohio, termed it "awfully good and one of the best golf courses in the country."

Both defending champion Gary Player and former winner Arnold Palmer tabbed Nicklaus the man to beat and the Las Vegas odds listed him a 9-2 favorite in this field of 133 pros and 18 amateurs.

After a record heat wave, the normal San Francisco fog crept back to town Wednesday and could bring changed course conditions every day of this 72-hole event as the moisture seeps back into the earth.

"Now this will play like a San Francisco course," Nicklaus said "If you want conditions like a Scottish course, you should go play in Scotland."

With the hot weather early in the week, the five-inch rough didn't seem so tough to many, but Nicklaus warned, "It will come back when it gets wet. Just see what happens to it."

Many, including host pro Kyle Burton, say a long ball hitter will be at a disadvantage and must play defensive golf over this tight layout of 6,727 yards with par 35-35-70.

"Hogwash," answered Nicklaus. "If you hit long and straight you have an advantage."

Ryun Given Nod For AAU Tests

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Ryun, the 19-year-old University of Kansas speedster, is eligible to try for another sub four-minute mile at the National AAU Track and Field Championship here June 25-26, thanks to a federal mediation panel.

The Amateur Athletic Union had threatened to ban Ryun and other athletes who had competed in the U.S. Track and Field Federational National meet at Terre Haute, Ind., last weekend.

The USTFF, an arm of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, had ignored an AAU demand on the eve of the meet that it apply for AAU sanction.

Former pitcher Gordon Maltzberger scouls for the Chicago White Sox.

Brown Hurls VFW Victory

DuPont Handed 4th Loss in 8-5 Game

VFW picked up its first win while handing Du Pont its fourth straight defeat Wednesday in an 8-5 decision in the Pony League.

Bryce Brown was the winning pitcher for the Vets, fanning 14 and scattering seven hits. Doyle Kiser worked for Du Pont fanning four and allowing 16 hits.

The Vets led, 3-1, after five innings. In the top of the sixth Du Pont rallied one but VFW exploded for five.

Du Pont rallied in the last but it was cut short at three runs.

BROWN also led the Vets hitting attack with a triple, double and single. Compton had a two - sacker and Mickey Riley collected a pair of two-baggers.

Kiser had two doubles and Carlton Good had one for the losers.

Reds Sweep Twin Bill From Phillies

CINCINNATI (AP) — The sweep of a twin-bill from the Philadelphia Phillies may have cheered up the Cincinnati Reds' fans Wednesday night but it left Manager Don Hefner somewhat short of ecstatic.

"I've been happier many, many times. It was a good day's work," the rookie manager told newsmen after the Reds overcame four-run deficits to win, 7-6 and 9-6.

While the Reds were happy after their third victory in a row, the Phils' dressing room was quiet and Manager Gene Mauch withdrew into the trainer's room where he was seen sitting and staring at the floor. Hefner particularly praised relief pitchers Bill McCool and Don Nottebart and for three players who came through with key hits — Johnny Edwards, Tommy Helms and Gordy Coleman.

Helms hit a two-run homer in the opener that helped to cut down the 6-2 lead Philadelphia seized during a six-run fourth inning. The Reds added another run on a pinch single and tied the score when Don Pavletich hit a pinch homer in the sixth.

"They won the game in the ninth when reliever Ed Roebuck walked Pete Rose and Vada Pinson slashed a triple. In the nightcap, the Phils seized a two-run lead in the first inning, but this was neutralized by Peet Rose's home run with a mate aboard later in the same inning.

Jimmy Gleeson, New York Yankee first base coach under Yogi Berra in 1964, now scouts for the team.

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Reds Sweep
Twin Bill
From Phillies

CINCINNATI (AP) — The sweep of a twin-bill from the Philadelphia Phillies may have cheered up the Cincinnati Reds fans Wednesday night but it left Manager Don Hefner somewhat short of ecstatic.

"I've been happier many, many times. It was a good day's work," the rookie manager told newsmen after the Reds overcame four-run deficits to win, 7-6 and 9-6. While the Reds were happy after their third victory in a row, the Phils' dressing room was quiet and Manager Gene Mauch withdrew into the trainer's room where he was seen sitting and staring at the floor. Hefner particularly praised relief pitchers Bill McCool and Don Nottebart and for three players who came through with key hits — Johnny Edwards, Tommy Helms and Gordy Coleman.

Helms hit a two-run homer in the opener that helped to cut down the 6-2 lead Philadelphia seized during a six run fourth inning. The Reds added another run on a pinch single and tied the score when Don Pavletich hit a pinch homer in the sixth. They won the game in the ninth when reliever Ed Roebuck walked Pete Rose and Vada Pinson slashed a triple. In the nightcap, the Phils seized a two-run lead in the first inning, but this was neutralized by Peet Rose's home run with a mate aboard later in the same inning.

Jimmy Gleason, New York Yankee first base coach under Yogi Berra in 1964, now scouts for the team.

Dry Tortugas Birds Back after Hurricane

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Thousands of birds nesting in the lonely Dry Tortugas Islands took off on the winds of Hurricane Alma and returned safely after riding out the storm, says Roger Allen, superintendent of the Everglades National Park.

He said the adult birds sensed that the rising winds meant trouble.

Wanted: a Plain Old-Fashioned Doughnut

EDITOR'S NOTE — Maine-born John Roderick has been a foreign correspondent for The Associated Press for the last 21 years. And it has been seven years since he was in the United States on vacation. Here are the observations of a slightly puzzled native son.

By JOHN RÖDERICK

NEW YORK (AP) — What has become of the plain old-fashioned doughnut mother used to make?

It has, alas, gone with the wind, along with the two inches of rich cream which once adorned the top of the milk bottle.

When a man has been away from America for seven years, as I have, his thoughts as he comes home are on many things.

I confess unashamedly that Maine lobsters, Boston baked beans and crisp, hot doughnuts washed down by a cool glass of creamy milk figured in my dreams.

I found the beans and lobsters more or less as they once were. But I wandered down Broadway and up Main Street in a fruitless search for the plain doughnut.

The doughnut of my day has married and remarried and produced a star-spangled crop of offspring called "donuts" of all colors, conditions and classes. They are glazed with a frightening variety of red, blue and green icing, impregnated with a thousand exotic flavors. I created a sensation by asking for a plain doughnut.

I am appalled at the tons of calories Americans daily cram into their mouths.

Friends already alarmingly overweight munch on chocolates, wolf down a malted milk, or tuck away a pie a la mode between meals.

They try to wash away these sins of gluttony with a glass of skim milk. For today skim milk, which we as children regarded with faint contempt as something for hogs, has become

Surveyor Faces Lunar Freeze

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — America's efficient eye on the moon, Surveyor 1, will be permanently blind if its electric heart fails to survive the super-cold lunar night, scientists report.

Surveyor, the brilliantly successful first attempt by the United States to land a spacecraft gently on the moon, was engulfed by the lunar night Tuesday after sending more than 10,000 high quality photos.

The night holds the peril of temperatures near 260 degrees below zero Fahrenheit—cold enough to freeze and perhaps destroy Surveyor's battery, its heart. Lunar night is two weeks long in earth time.

a prima donna in fancy dress, beckoning to the fat because it has fewer calories.

I have been struck by the extraordinary contrasts, greater I believe than those I have noted among the Japanese among whom I have lived since 1959.

Never have I seen so much affluence, so many smart homes, apartments, automobiles and public buildings. But beside them there are shocking slums.

Take the train from Boston to New York and look out the window as it moves through the outskirts of the big cities on the route.

Never have I seen so many large, ugly, badly styled automobiles.

Contrasted to the neat, compact Japanese models they seem grotesque.

After the doughnut and the automobile, I stood back aghast at urban renewal. It has

Lynda Bird Bones Up On Spanish Language

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lynda Bird Johnson still isn't saying when she will leave for her vacation in Spain. But she did admit Tuesday night to boning up on her Spanish in preparation.

Lynda, elder daughter of the President, made that disclosure before she attended a performance of a musical with her escort, James Betar.

changed the face of America. In my home town, great cavities have appeared on Main Street and shopping centers have proliferated on the outskirts.

All this may well be for the good if we are replacing the old with something graceful and vital. But what about the 33-story apartment building in New York which I saw soon after arrival?

"Isn't urban renewal wonderful?" I exclaimed. "They're taking down that ugly old building."

"Are you crazy?" my host

Soldier's Kidney Goes to Brother

CINCINNATI (AP)—A 19-year-old soldier, home on leave, has given one of his kidneys to his five-year-old brother.

Surgeons at the hospital per tal disclosed that a six-hour operation was performed Tuesday for the transplanting of a kidney from the body of Pvt. James Maynard to that of his brother, Barry.

The younger boy has had a diseased kidney and has been using an artificial kidney for the last several months.

The boys are the sons of Roy Maynard.

Surgeons at th hospital performed successful kidney transplant about a year ago on another boy.

asked. "They're not taking it down. They're putting it up."

Today's American, I believe, is taller mentally and even spiritually than ever before. But he often is assailed by waves of mediocrity, compressed into molds of conformity, invited to lose himself to forget his obligations.

What he needs is the plain doughnut.

Southeast Economy Said Hurt by Boom

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — "Boom conditions" imposed strains on the economy of the Southeast during April, the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta says in its monthly review.

Labor shortages, higher Social Security taxes and income tax withholdings, and stiffer mortgage conditions were cited among factors which held back the economy of the 6th Federal Reserve District.

Educational Unit Picks Denver Site

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 36-state Compact for Education has decided on Denver, Colo., for its permanent headquarters by July 1, 1968, but temporary headquarters will be in Cincinnati, it was reported here Wednesday.

Harold Eibling, Columbus school superintendent, was elected to a seat on the steering committee of the organization, Cincinnati School Supt. Wendell Pierce, who has resigned that post, serves on the committee as Compact executive director.

There had been some hope that Cincinnati would be selected as the permanent headquarters, but the decision on Denver came during a Chicago conference just ended.

State Rep. Clara E. Weisenborn, Dayton, and Eibling made presentations to the compact delegates on state and Columbus educational programs, respectively.

Other Ohio delegates included John D. Millett, chancellor of the Ohio Board of Regents; Martin Essex, recently named Ohio superintendent of public instruction; Sen. Oakley C. Collins, R-Ironton, and Bishop C. E. Elwell, superintendent of the Cleveland diocese.

Dry Tortugas Birds Back after Hurricane

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Thousands of birds nesting in the lonely Dry Tortugas Islands took off on the winds of Hurricane Alma and returned safely after riding out the storm, says Roger Allen, superintendent of the Everglades National Park.

He said the adult birds sensed that the rising winds meant trouble.

Wanted: a Plain Old-Fashioned Doughnut

EDITOR'S NOTE — Maine-born John Roderick has been a foreign correspondent for The Associated Press for the last 21 years. And it has been seven years since he was in the United States on vacation. Here are the observations of a slightly puzzled native son.

By JOHN RODERICK
NEW YORK (AP) — What has become of the plain old-fashioned doughnut mother used to make?

It has, alas, gone with the wind, along with the two inches of rich cream which once adorned the top of the milk bottle.

When a man has been away from America for seven years, as I have, his thoughts as he comes home are on many things.

I confess unabashedly that Maine lobsters, Boston baked beans and crisp, hot doughnuts washed down by a cool glass of creamy milk figured in my dreams.

I found the beans and lobsters more or less as they once were. But I wandered down Broadway and up Main Street in a fruitless search for the plain doughnut.

The doughnut of my day has married and remarried and produced a star-spangled crop of offspring called "donuts" of all colors, conditions and classes. They are glazed with a frightening variety of red, blue and green icing, impregnated with a thousand exotic flavors. I created a sensation by asking for a plain doughnut.

I am appalled at the tons of calories Americans daily cram into their mouths.

Friends already alarmingly overweight munch on chocolates, wolf down a malted milk, or tuck away a pie a la mode between meals.

They try to wash away these sins of gluttony with a glass of skim milk. For today skim milk, which we as children regarded with faint contempt as something for hogs, has become

Surveyor Faces Lunar Freeze

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — America's efficient eye on the moon, Surveyor 1, will be permanently blind if its electric heart fails to survive the super-cold lunar night, scientists report.

Surveyor, the brilliantly successful first attempt by the United States to land a spacecraft gently on the moon, was engulfed by the lunar night Tuesday after sending more than 10,000 high quality photos.

The night holds the peril of temperatures near 260 degrees below zero Fahrenheit—cold enough to freeze and perhaps destroy Surveyor's battery, its heart. Lunar night is two weeks long in earth time.

a prima donna in fancy dress, beckoning to the fat because it has fewer calories.

I have been struck by the extraordinary contrasts, greater I believe than those I have noted among the Japanese among whom I have lived since 1959.

Never have I seen so much affluence, so many smart homes, apartments, automobiles and public buildings. But beside them there are shocking slums.

Take the train from Boston to New York and look out the window as it moves through the outskirts of the big cities on the route.

Never have I seen so many large, ugly, badly styled automobiles.

Contrasted to the neat, compact Japanese models they seem grotesque.

After the doughnut and the automobile, I stood back aghast at urban renewal. It has changed the face of America. In my home town, great cavities have appeared on Main Street and shopping centers have proliferated on the outskirts.

All this may well be for the good if we are replacing the old with something graceful and vital. But what about the 33-story apartment building in New York which I saw soon after arrival?

"Isn't urban renewal wonderful?" I exclaimed. "They're taking down that ugly old building."

"Are you crazy?" my host

asked. "They're not taking it down. They're putting it up."

Today's American, I believe, is taller mentally and even spiritually than ever before. But he often is assailed by waves of mediocrity, compressed into molds of conformity, invited to lose himself to forget his obligations.

What he needs is the plain doughnut.

Soldier's Kidney Goes to Brother

CINCINNATI (AP)—A 19-year-old soldier, home on leave, has given one of his kidneys to his five-year-old brother.

Surgeons at the hospital performed a six-hour operation for the transplanting of a kidney from the body of Pvt. James Maynard to that of his brother, Barry.

The younger boy has had a diseased kidney and has been using an artificial kidney for the last several months.

The boys are the sons of Roy Maynard.

Surgeons at the hospital performed successful kidney transplant about a year ago on another boy.

Southeast Economy Said Hurt by Boom

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — "Boom conditions" imposed strains on the economy of the Southeast during April, the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta says in its monthly review.

Labor shortages, higher Social Security taxes and income tax withholdings and stiffer mortgage conditions were cited among factors which held back the economy of the 6th Federal Reserve District.
